ON JUNE 24, 1980, COMPOSITE PHOTOGRAPH OF COOPER WAS SHOWN

[REDACTED] (PROTECT IDENTITY), [REDACTED] WHO SAID ARMSTRONG RESEMBLED COOPER. [REDACTED] FURTHER ADVISED THAT ARMSTRONG HAD.
LIVED AT BTC FOR TWO WEEKS AND THAT HE WAS EMPLOYED AT DU PONT, WASHINGTON, WV, BY EDENFIELD ELECTRIC COMPANY (EEC). ON JUNE 24, 1980, [REDACTED] (PROTECT IDENTITY), [REDACTED] EEC, WAS SHOWN COMPOSITE AND HE, TOO, STATED THAT ARMSTRONG RESEMBLED
COOPER. ON JUNE 24, 1980, [REDACTED] (PROTECT IDENTITY), [REDACTED] DU PONT, ADVISED HIS RECORDS INDICATE ARMSTRONG HAD BEEN OFF WORK SINCE MAY 19, 1980, BUT HAD APPARENTLY RETURNED TO EEC ON JUNE 23, 1980. REASONS FOR ARMSTRONG'S ABSENCE NOT INDICATED.

ON JUNE 24, 1980, ARMSTRONG WAS INTERVIEWED AT HIS HOUSE TRAILER AND IMMEDIATELY THE INTERVIEWING SA SAW A SIMILARITY BETWEEN COOPER AND ARMSTRONG WITH THE ONLY DIFFERENCES BEING AGE AND HEIGHT.
1971 WITNESSES DESCRIBED COOPER AT 5'10" TO 6'0", WITH AGE IN MIDDLE FORTIES. ARMSTRONG IS 5'7", AND 43 YEARS OF AGE. IT WAS NOTED AT FIRST APPEARANCE THAT ARMSTRONG HAD A TATTOO ON HIS LEFT ARM WITH LETTERING "U.S. PARATROOPER". MOREOVER, ARMSTRONG INDICATED DURING THE INTERVIEW A KEEN INTEREST IN THE COOPER MATTER.

b6
b7C
b7D

PA3 5#433

UNCLAS

HE SAID HIS INTEREST RESULTED FROM EARLY NEWS REPORTS THAT COOPER MAY HAVE BEEN A PARATROOPER. ARMSTRONG ASKED POINTED QUESTIONS OF SA SUCH AS, HAD ANY LATENT PRINTS BEEN OBTAINED AND HE WAS INTERESTED TO KNOW IF COOPER HAD, IN FACT, PARACHUTED INSTEAD OF HIDING SOMEWHERE IN THE PLANE. ARMSTRONG ADMITTED THAT HE HAD MADE 30 JUMPS WHILE IN THE U.S. PARATROOPERS SOME OF WHICH WERE FROM PLANES FLYING 300 MILES PER HOUR. HE STATED THAT ALTITUDE WOULD HAVE BEEN NO PROBLEM FOR ANY SKILLED PARACHUTIST.

ARMSTRONG MUST BE CONSIDERED A SUSPECT, UNTIL HE IS ELIMINATED, BECAUSE OF HIS SIMILARITY TO THE COMPOSITE OF COOPER, HIS U.S. PARATROOPER SERVICE, HIS ADMITTED USE OF DYNAMITE AND HIS UNEMPLOYMENT AT THE TIME OF THE SKYJACKING, NOVEMBER 24, 1971.

ARREST RECORDS OF ARMSTRONG AT PARKERSBURG POLICE DEPARTMENT AND WOOD COUNTY SHERIFF'S OFFICE, PARKERSBURG, ARE NEGATIVE.

ARMSTRONG PROVIDED THE FOLLOWING BACKGROUND INFORMATION CONCERNING HIMSELF:

NAME RICHARD A. ARMSTRONG, SEX MALE, RACE WHITE, DOB AUGUST 3, 1937, POB HIGH POINT, NC, RESIDENCE BICKEL TRAILER COURT, PARKERSBURG, TWO WEEKS, FORMER RESIDENCE NO. 5, LOT 31, EIGHTH AVE., PARKERSBURG, WV, HEIGHT 5'7", WEIGHT 165, EYES GRAY, GLASSES

MISCELLANEOUS

Unsub may have made a trial run prior to NORJAK to perfect his hijack plan, therefore, leads have been set out to determine the feasibility of obtaining passenger lists from all Northwest-Orient Airlines flights from Portland to Seattle during the period 11/10/71 - 11/23/71. If passenger lists of flights from Portland to Seattle for two weeks prior to NORJAK can be obtained, the names on these lists would be compared to NORJAK indices and other lists currently on file at Seattle, in order to possibly identify Unsub.

MONTHLY SUMMARY

Re: Seattle airtel to the Bureau, 2/7/73.

SEARCH AREA AND COURSE

In attempt to determine the accuracy of the first search area, the following was learned:

The first search area was calculated using a system of plotting known as "GEOREF" (i.e. Geographical Reference) which has a plotting error of plus or minus one mile. A new plotting system using a computer generated latitude and longitude has a plotting error of plus or minus 1/2 mile. Using the new system, [redacted], Northwest Orient Airlines [redacted], plotted a new course for the Norjak airplane and a new search area based on the new course. The new search area is partially outside the first area.

b7C

It is felt that if Unsub's parachute opened, he is no longer in the southwest Washington area, but if his parachute did not open, he would be in a corridor along the flight path. The time of jump is known, and an area approximately one mile by seven miles represents the area Unsub. would have landed in if his parachute did not open.

Seattle Division is currently making arrangements to search that portion of the above described area not previously searched.

PUBLICITY

As a result of the recent publicity release in the December FBI Law Enforcement Bulletin, several new leads have been received at both the Seattle Division and the Denver Division.

SEARCH AREA AND COURSE

By airtel dated November 15, 1972, WFO was requested to contact the National Military Command Center, Washington, D.C. concerning a training mission in aerial photography along a small portion of the NORJAK flight path - the 87 miles that UNSUB could possibly have thrown evidence out of the plane.

ARTIST'S SKETCH

By separate communication Seattle Division has requested 1,000 copies each of the new artist's sketches labeled B dated January 2, 1973. Seattle Division will coordinate the distribution of the new sketches when copies are obtained.

Unknown subject, aka Dan Cooper, allegedly a heavy smoker of Raleigh filter-tip cigarettes. Search of plane involved in NORJAK conducted at Reno, Nevada, revealed eight Raleigh cigarette butts found near unsub's location. Unsub was on the plane eight hours under extremely tense and nervous conditions. A normal "two pack-a-day" smoker consumes 2.5 cigarettes per hour average. Unsub, under stress conditions, consumed 1 cigarette per hour average.

On the possibility that unsub may save Raleigh coupons and redeem them regularly, the following lead is set forth:

WEEKLY SUMMARY

As the result of the Seattle file review currently in progress, the following investigation has been initiated:

On the premise that unsub parachuted successfully into the previously calculated area of southwest Washington, it is speculated he would have buried the money and his parachute and then hiked to the nearest road or highway. From there, he would most probably have walked to the nearest phone booth and called a friend or relative for the purpose of being picked up.

Based on the above, all the pay phones surrounding the calculated drop area within reasonable walking distance, i.e., 15 miles, are being checked for long distance phone calls made during the evening of 11/24/71 and on the morning of 11/25/71.

The remains of JAMES ANNIS have been found by hunters near Cougar, Washington, on 11/5/72. ANNIS, 16 years old in 1971, was reported missing on 11/13/71 while hunting. He was positively identified by dental examination 11/7/72.

It is felt that the discovery of the remains was the direct result of information being made available to hunters by the Washington State game wardens, and of the publicity being afforded this case by The Pacific Northwest news media.

ReSEairtel to Bureau dated 8/22/72, requesting mats of the artist's conception prepared in captioned matter for use in obtaining more widespread publicity.

In accordance with the request of the Seattle Office 8/7/72, a color artist's conception was prepared and forwarded to the Seattle Office. To date the Bureau has received no evaluation of this color sketch. Seattle's request for mats will not be further considered until the Bureau receives an evaluation by the witnesses of the color sketch.

For the information of the Seattle Office, commercial engravers charge $10 per 50 minutes plus an initial charge of $8 for a 4" x 5" plate. These mats will only reproduce in black and white. Many publishers both large and small presently use the offset printing process which does not require a mat.

The Seattle Office should promptly coordinate review of the Bureau's color sketch for the purpose of evaluation. If it is deemed advisable that the mats be prepared, resubmit your recommendation.

In order that this case be given more publicity, the following leads are being set forth for Bureau consideration and approval:

1. Mats should be made of the artist's conception of Unsub so that small publications with limited funds can feature articles concerning this matter and include with the story a picture of Unsub without incurring the additional expense of having new mats made (Note: An editor of the Veterans' of Foreign Wars publication for the State of Oregon has requested such a mat to print a picture of Unsub in his next issue).

Re Bureau airtel 5/17/72.

Pursuant to instructions contained in referenced airtel, an extensive file review of captioned case was conducted. Among the files reviewed were the main volumes, numbered 1 through 47, sub-files designated for particular areas of interest, i.e., Parachutes, Witnesses, Course, 1-A volumes and numerous suspect files. In addition, an examination was made of all physical evidence being maintained at Seattle, for pertinent investigative leads.

As a result of this review, the following suggestions are being proposed:

REWARD: This case has generated world-wide attention and many suspects have been suggested and are continuing to be received. However, since nothing of value has yet been developed, it is felt that the prospect of a substantial reward for information leading to the identification and conviction of this hijacker, might entice someone to come forward and name the hijacker.

b6

To be realistic, the reward would have to be attractive to the person furnishing the information and therefore, a sum of not less than $25,000 is recommended.

The reward money could be provided either by the Department of Justice, or by the airlines, or by both. The only reward at the moment is $5,000, offered by the Seattle, Washington newspaper SEATTLE POST INTELLIGENCER "Secret Witness Program."

At approximately 2:30 PM our time I talked to SA HENRY SCHUTZ from the Bureau.

SCHUTZ requested that I be sure to get word to you that he expects to hear from you tonight to talk over the search situation.

He also advised it will be necessary to get a "good" teletype off to the Bureau tonight relative to the discontinuance of the search for the time being. This teletype should generally point out that the Army has withdrawn its troops, that the search has been arduous and physically exhausting and that the troops are being withdrawn primarily to give them some rest; also in view of the approaching holiday weekend. It should point out that agents have been with the troops throughout the search and that the agents involved also have undergone an arduous and tiring experience and can use rest too. It should point out that UACB agents from the nearby offices at least will be released to return to their offices, and that either the same agents or replacements for them will rejoin the search with the Army troops at whatever time this resumption of the search is established.

Re: UNKNOWN SUBJECT, aka Dan Cooper;
NORTHWEST AIRLINES FLIGHT #305,
PORTLAND TO SEATTLE,
11/24/71
CRIME ABOARD AIRCRAFT - HIJACKING; EXTORTION

On November 24, 1971, an unknown man using the name Dan Cooper, boarded Northwest Airlines Flight #305, at Portland International Airport, Portland, Oregon, enroute Seattle, Washington.

As the plane was taxiing down the runway, Stewardess [REDACTED] occupied the seat reserved for the stewardesses on the right side of the plane and behind the last row of passenger seats. The unknown subject, who occupied the center seat in the last row of three seats, turned and handed her an envelope which she did not open for a few minutes until he glanced at her several times. She then opened the envelope and read the enclosed note which said: "Miss - I have a bomb here and I would like you to sit by me." At this point Stewardess [REDACTED] came toward the rear of the plane and [REDACTED] handed [REDACTED] the note. [REDACTED] then called the pilot on the intercom.

b7c

[REDACTED] on the flight, later advised that according to notes he made during the incident, the emergency signal from Stewardess [REDACTED] was received on the intercom at 3:59 PM.

b6
b7c

Stewardess [REDACTED] then sat next to the hijacker who opened a black attache case and showed her what he said was a bomb. She described the contents of the attache case as a bundle of red sticks, which she believed was dynamite. The bundle consisted of six or eight red colored sticks approximately six to eight inches long with no writing on the outside. The hijacker was holding in his hand a wire which led to the bundle of sticks and indicated that he could detonate the bomb by touching the wire to a contact. Also in the attache case was a cylindrical shaped battery about eight inches long.

1. The Director approved publicity of the article and artist's conception in the parachute magazine in response to our teletype 12/7/71.

2. He referred to a teletype of 12/7/71 from Portland in regard to a person who was [redacted]

[redacted]. He said it seemed to him that Portland had set out a lot of unnecessary investigation since the purpose of the thing was simply to get a photo of the suspect and have it shown to witnesses rather than getting all the background.

b7c

3. He wanted to know if we had considered having a Northwest plane fly Agents over the exact course at night so that we could look down and see just what the situation was when the "bump" occurred at 8:10 or 8:12 PM. I told him we had considered this and also had considered hiring someone to parachute from the plane but the problem was that there was no way of duplicating the conditions which existed at the time. He requested we put some type of language in a teletype about this.

SEATTLE HAS CONDUCTED AN EXTENSIVE SEARCH OF WHAT WAS

 PRIME DUE TO CALCULATIONS BY NORTHWEST AIRLINES OF THEIR FLIGHT

Reference Seattle letter to Minneapolis dated 5/23/79.

Enclosed for Seattle are the original and two copies of an FD-302 reflecting interview with [redacted] [redacted] of Northwest Orient Airlines and an airplane decal which was enclosed in referenced letter for Minneapolis.

b7c

On 7/19/79, [redacted] advised that the probability that this decal came from the same aircraft hijacked by COOPER is about ninety-nine per cent. He noted that there is a slight difference in the color of the lettering of the decals placed on the aircraft and that recovered. This, of course, could be accounted for by the weather conditions. The second thing noted by [redacted] is that the decal does not appear to be as worn as one would think after having been located in the out state area for the past eight years. He thought that a decal in this condition would have been handled by predators more than it appears. [redacted] suggested that perhaps the Bureau could contact the manufacturer of the decal in order to determine if the decal could withstand the weathering conditions and still be in this condition.

By COLUMBIAN STAFF, AP

An FBI agent here said this morning that the piece of plastic decal found by a Kelso hunter last November could have dropped from any Boeing 727, not necessarily the one hijacker D.B. Cooper bailed out of Thanksgiving eve 1971.

John Gordon of the bureau's Vancouver office said, "There is no positive proof that the decal came from the Cooper plane."

An FBI spokesman in Seattle, speculated Thursday that the decal may have fallen off the Cooper plane when the craft was used for a re-enactment of the hijacking six weeks after it occurred.

"We noticed the decal was missing after that, but not before," the spokesman said.

A spokesman added that the placards, used to give emergency directions for the rear door on 727s, have been known to fall off under normal conditions.

Earlier this week Cowlitz County

Sheriff Les Nelson disclosed the discovery of the decal last November by Carroll Hicks, a self-employed welder from Kelso who was elk hunting when he found the bit of debris.

"It's one in a million that any other plane could have lost it in the area in which D.B. Cooper jumped," Nelson said.

But while the 10-inch square decal has stirred wide interest, Gordon expressed doubt it would help solve the mystery behind the case.

"It's interesting, but I don't think it will help us find Cooper," he said of the decal.

Gordon said the FBI has no plans to resume the search for Cooper and the $200,000 that left the airplane with him.

Cowlitz County officials have indicated they do not plan to search for Cooper, either, but they did say they hope to encourage people to "keep their eyes open," when they are in the area the decal was found about 12 miles east of Kelso.

His place of business is located at [redacted] telephone number of [redacted].

b6
b7C

He heard on the news that a plastic decal, possibly from D. B. COOPER's plane, was found in the Castle Rock, Washington, area recently. He recalled that in October, 1978, he was hunting in that general area and saw in a tall tree something flapping. The area he was in was north of Toutle Park. This item he saw in the tree was light in color and he feels, perhaps, that might have been a parachute, possibly the one used by COOPER. He did indicate, however, this thing he saw could have been a weather parachute and could have been there in his previous trips to that area, although he has not seen it before. He does not know if this information will be of any assistance to the FBI, but in the event the FBI desires to find the exact location of this item, he and his cousin are willing to escort the FBI into the area and point out the article, if they can find it, to the FBI.

The above is for information purposes.

[redacted], Northwest Orient Airlines, Minneapolis-St. Paul International Airport, advised as follows:

After having been displayed the decal of Boeing Aircraft Company noting the emergency exit handle on the aft airstair, [redacted] advised that the decal probably came off when the stairs were lowered due to the change in air pressure. He recalled that about two days after the hijacking by D. B. COOPER, he and [redacted]

[redacted] took the same aircraft used by COOPER in order to determine whether or not there was a change in pressure at the time he parachuted from the aircraft. [redacted] recalls that he and [redacted] flew out over the ocean and ran their theory and returned to Seattle, Washington. He noted after returning to Seattle, that decals had come off the aircraft and surmised that the decal located near Castle Rock, Washington, would have come off in a similar fashion.

After viewing the maps plotting the path taken by COOPER which were located in the office of [redacted], the [redacted] stated that Castle Rock, Washington, is rather close to the path taken by COOPER. He added that if indeed the decal came from the same aircraft used by COOPER, it would have floated about in the air currents much like a leaf and could have found its way near Castle Rock.

SUMMARY

This report presents the results of tests conducted on the Model 727 airplane to evaluate the characteristics of the aft airstair when extended inflight and the associated effects on airplane performance and handling. The airstair was extended both by allowing it to free-fall and by utilizing normal hydraulic power. These extensions were made with the airplane trimmed for level flight at 125 knots and flaps at 25 degrees. The airstair extended a nominal 8.5 degrees when allowed to free-fall and it required only approximately one-tenth unit of nose-down trim to compensate for the stair. The stair extended a nominal 13.5 degrees with hydraulic power and this caused approximately a three-tenths unit nose-down trim change. The airplane was also accelerated to V_{MO} with flaps up and the airstair free-falling. The airstair was quite stable when it was down and no airplane control problems were experienced. No excessive cabin pressure transients were noted with the aft entry door open and the stair extended. The environment near the aft entry door allowed it to be safely opened and the stair retracted at speeds up to 300 knots. At 300 knots, it was also found that the airstair would not free-fall when unlatched.

INTRODUCTION

Reference (a) specified that the aft airstairs should be released in flight and allowed to free-fall without utilizing hydraulic power, simulating an in-flight failure of the airstair up-latch. In addition, it also specified that the airstair should be extended by utilizing normal hydraulic power. The aerodynamic characteristics of the extended airstair and the associated effects on airplane performance and handling were also to be evaluated at speeds up to V_{MO} .

The initial evaluation was conducted on Test 100-1, with most of the production airstair cavity panels removed. They were removed to avoid the possibility of panel failure causing damage to wiring and tubing in the area, in the event large pressure differentials should occur. Testing was done with flaps at 25 degrees and a nominal airspeed of 125 knots, with the airstair allowed to free-fall and also extended with hydraulic power. In addition, with the aft airstair free-floating, the flaps were retracted and the airplane was accelerated to V_{MO} . The testing was repeated on Test 100-3 with all the production airstair cavity panels installed, with the exception that no hydraulic airstair extension was attempted. In addition, two unsuccessful attempts were made to release the airstair and allow it to free-fall at an approximate airspeed of 300 knots.

Both tests were conducted from Boeing Field, Seattle, on Airplane N72700. Boeing pilots, Mr. J. Waddell and Mr. S. L. Wallick, conducted Test 100-1, with Boeing Test Engineer, Mr. R. F. Brown, operating the aft airstair.

Test 100-3 was conducted by Boeing pilots, Mr. J. Waddell and [redacted] with Boeing Test Engineer, Mr. C. M. Clark, operating the airstair.

CONFIGURATION

Model 727-22, Airplane N72700, was in production configuration as detailed in Reference (b) except for the removal of the production airstair cavity panels during Test 100-1 and the removal of the airstair spring-loaded latch stop during both tests. In addition, FC 751-1-1 was incorporated on the airplane for both tests. This FC provided a cable to restrain the airstair to a maximum extension of 25 degrees and thus prevent airstair damage during landing in the event the stair could not be retracted in flight.

The airplane cabin was depressurized during both tests, with the ram air valve closed, both air conditioning packs off, and the manual pressure controller in full decrease pressure.

INSTRUMENTATION AND DATA REDUCTION

A Pulse Duration Modulation (PDM) magnetic tape system and a photorecorder were used to record performance and calibrated data. Airspeed and altitude were measured using the pilots' production pitot-static system. The aft airstair was instrumented to measure position in degrees from the up and locked position. The static pressure in Section 48 was measured by a pick-up that was located on the LH side of the airplane, outboard of the LH cavity side panels. Airplane cabin pressure and rate of climb were recorded on the photorecorder. Instrumentation calibrations and configurations will be found in Reference (e). White tufts were installed on the aft airstair and adjacent bulkheads and some photographs of tuft activity were taken during Test 100-1 (Pages 7 through 9).

The PDM magnetic tape data were reduced by the IBM 7090 computer using the Basic Airplane (BA), Engine Performance (EP), and Calibrated Data (Calib.) programs. The procedures are outlined in Reference (f). The computer output data are filed in Reference (c). Photorecorder data were manually reduced and the tabulated results are filed in this report. (Pages 13 through 23).

RESULTS AND DISCUSSION

The aft airstair control system was in production configuration for both Test 100-1 and 100-3, except for removal of the spring-loaded latch stop. The latch stop was removed to permit moving the control handle to the UP position with the airstair down, thus simulating a condition which could exist if the up-latch failed inflight. With the airstair down and the control handle in the UP position, both the UP and DOWN side of the stair actuator are connected to the system return line through the control valve, allowing the airstair to free-float. The control handle was in the UP position during all test conditions, except for stair extension and retraction and the stair extension utilizing hydraulic power.

The sequence during Test 100-1 (Reference (d)) started with the airplane trimmed for level flight at 10,000 feet altitude and 125 knots airspeed, flaps at 25 degrees, cabin depressurized, and the airstair up and locked. With the operator wearing a parachute and secured by a restraining strap, the aft entry door was opened. No difficulty was experienced in opening the aft entry door and the operator then moved the upper control handle to the DOWN position without depressing the handle trigger. Thus, the airstair was unlocked and allowed to free-fall. After the stair started to extend, the control handle was moved to the UP position and the stair was allowed to free-float. No noticeable out-rush of cabin air was experienced when the stair extended and only a one-tenth unit nose-down trim change was required to counteract the airstair floating down approximately 8.5 degrees. The aft entry door was allowed to remain open and a photograph of tuft activity was taken after the airplane stabilized on this condition (Page 7). The tuft picture appears to indicate some airflow into the cabin.

With the flaps still at 25 degrees and at approximately 125 knots airspeed, the airstair was successfully retracted and the uplatch secured by moving the control handle from the UP to the RETRACT position, depressing the handle trigger, and moving the handle back to the UP position after the airstair was fully retracted. The next condition involved extending the stair utilizing hydraulic power. The control handle was moved from the UP to the DOWN position with the handle trigger depressed. With hydraulic pressure on the DOWN side of the actuator, the airstair initially extended to approximately 14 degrees and then retracted slightly, probably because of compression of the lower struts. Three-tenths of a unit nose down trim change was required with the airstair in this position, but no control problems were experienced (Reference tabulation on Page 10). The aft entry door was open throughout this condition and another picture of tuft activity was taken (Page 8). This picture is not as clear as the first because the flash bulb failed to operate.

Following this, the control handle was returned to the UP position, allowing the airstair to free-float, and the aft entry door was closed. The flaps were then retracted to zero and the airplane retrrimmed at approximately 200 knots airspeed and 10,000 feet altitude. Engine power was then increased to MCT and the airplane was accelerated to V_{MO}, retrimming each time the stick force reached approximately 20 to 30 pounds. The free-floating stair oscillated a maximum of 1.5 degrees during the acceleration, but no extreme bouncing was observed (Reference plot on Page 11). No control problems were experienced during the acceleration, and the airstair slowly retracted as the airspeed increased. Another picture of tuft activity at V_{MO} was taken through the aft entry door window (Page 9). Although the field of view is quite restricted, again the tufts appear to indicate some airflow into the cavity. This inflow of air was also noticed when the aft entry door was unlatched at V_{MO} and some inflow of air was noted around the door seals. The door was again latched and the airplane decelerated to approximately 260 knots airspeed, at which time the aft entry door was easily opened, the aft airstair was again successfully retracted and latched, and the entry door closed.

The procedure during Test 100-3 was the same as Test 100-1, except that the airstair was not extended using hydraulic pressure. In addition, the airplane was being continually retrrimmed during the acceleration to V_{MO}, making it easier to hold a nearly constant altitude (Reference plot on Page 12). An additional condition was also conducted during this test: namely, two attempts were made to unlock the airstair and allow it to free-fall at an airspeed of approximately 300 knots. This condition was done after accelerating to V_{MO} with the stair down. The aft entry door was easily opened at this airspeed, again noting a slight inflow of air into the cabin. The airstair was successfully retracted with hydraulic power and the control handle moved to the UP position to lock the stair. Following this, the handle was moved to the DOWN position, without depressing the handle trigger, to permit the stair to free-fall. Although the uplock was visually observed to rotate and release the stair and the pilot reported that the warning light in the control cabin indicated the stair was unlocked, the air load prevented the stair from extending. A second attempt was made at this airspeed, after first returning the control handle to the UP position and then positioning it to DOWN. The same results were obtained. The test was concluded by again closing and latching the aft entry door at the airspeed of approximately 300 knots. No further pictures of tuft activity were taken on this test. Since no large pressure surges had been recorded in the cavity during Test 100-1, all of the production airstair cavity panels were installed during Test 100-3. No panel movement or oil-canning was noticed during the test, and no panel failures were noted after landing.

CONCLUSIONS

No unusual control or handling problems should be experienced if the aft airstair should accidentally extend inflight. In fact, from the results obtained during Test 100-3, if the up-latch failed at normal cruise speed, the aft airstair would probably not extend until the airplane slowed down to some airspeed below 300 knots. The control handle would be expected to remain in its normal UP position, because the detent provides a positive stop. Thus, the first indication of latch failure would occur when the airstair extended far enough to operate the stair warning light microswitch located at the aft end of the cavity. Since the airstair might contact the runway as the airspeed decreased after landing, the aft entry door could be opened and an operator could safety initiate stair retraction. Provided there was no structural interference from a failed roller or up-latch, the airstair should retract. However, it would be necessary to hold the control handle in the RETRACT position and keep the trigger depressed, because the system is depressurized when the control handle is in the UP position.

Sgt LEWIS WALLICK, a Test Pilot employed by The Boeing Company, Seattle, Washington, telephone 655-4031, furnished the following information:

He was the Chief Test Pilot on the Boeing 727 project and he conducted the flight testing of this aircraft.

On several occasions during this testing he intentionally lowered the rear stairs under the tail of the aircraft while in flight. The effect of lowering these stairs in flight was hardly noticeable on the controls and the only positive indication he had that the stairs were lowered was — the lighting of an indicator light on the instrument panel. The stairs were lowered at a speed of 150 knots. While the stairs were lowered the plane remained in the same attitude. There was no yawing or pitching.

He furnished the following opinions in connection with the question of whether or not a pilot would feel in his controls a sudden loss of weight of approximately 180 pounds from the tail of a 727. He advised that if the pilot were flying the aircraft manually and if the air were calm, he would feel a sudden loss of 180 pounds weight from the tail of the aircraft. He explained that the loss of this weight would move the center of gravity toward the front of the airplane and while this movement would be slight, it could be felt in the wheel by the pilot. He stated, however, that if the air were turbulent, it is doubtful that the pilot would feel this sudden loss of weight. He indicated also that if the plane were being flown on auto-pilot the loss of this weight would not be felt by the pilot.

He advised that if the rear stairs on a 727 is lowered in flight at an altitude of less than 10,000 feet a change in pressurization occurs and this could be felt by the crew if the door leading into the cockpit is open. If the cockpit door were closed, it is doubtful that the crew would experience the change in pressurization.

He said that the man who he believes was the hijacker of the plane was sitting on the right-hand side of the plane in the last row of seats.

He said at that time a dark-haired stewardess came from the front of the plane and handed a note to a blonde-haired stewardess who was sitting in the seat next to the hijacker. He said that the dark-haired stewardess then returned to the front of the plane and the blonde stewardess got up and went to the phone at the rear of the plane.

[redacted] said that while in flight the pilot made several announcements that they were experiencing mechanical difficulty. He said that he was suspicious when the plane circled over Seattle for about two hours. He said that during this time the blonde-haired stewardess who was seated next to the hijacker, made numerous phone calls from the rear of the plane. He said that during the period when the plane was circling Seattle he left his seat and moved to a seat several rows forward.

[redacted] said that when the plane made its landing approach, the pilot announced that they were about to land and due to mechanical problems it was "emphatic" that the passengers remain in their seats with seat belts fastened until the pilot advised otherwise.

[redacted] said that after the plane landed the blonde stewardess, who had been sitting next to the hijacker, got up and went forward and out the forward exit of the plane. He said she returned through the same door after several minutes carrying a package which was made of off-white canvas. He said

He was on duty [redacted] for Flight 305 on November 24, 1971. He could not recognize any of the passengers by name, as he handles on a daily basis thousands of names. However, he remembers one particular individual who stood out in his mind. It was raining at the airport that date and all the passengers were making comments and jokingly stating they were going to have to run through a great deal of rain in order to board Flight 305 to Seattle. The only individual who was not mixing with other passengers and joking about the rain was a man whom he described as a white male, age 50, height 6'1" plus, 175 to 180 lbs., slender build, with black wavy hair, smartly dressed, wearing a black raincoat and carrying a black attache case.

b7C

[redacted] stated he has a habit of noticing individuals dressed in black and this was the reason he remembers the above-described individual. The man described above had a "blah" attitude and was quite unaffected by the inclement weather conditions prevailing at the time, which noticeably bothered the rest of the passengers.

b6
b7C

[redacted] is not sure whether he would recognize the individual described above if he were to see him again.

EARL J. COSSEY, 349 North 101st, Seattle, telephone SU3-0475, appeared at the Seattle Office at which time he furnished the following information:

He is a master parachute rigger and jump instructor at Seattle Sky Sports, Issaquah, Washington, telephone EX2-3050.

In May, 1971, [redacted], Washington, [redacted] and needed two parachutes. COSSEY packed two parachutes which were furnished to [redacted] on or about May [redacted], 1971. He described these parachutes as back packs, commonly referred to as "emergency" parachutes. He also packed the two chest pack parachutes which were furnished to Northwest Airlines on November 24, 1971.

b7C

The two parachutes recovered from the Northwest Airlines flight 305 at Reno, Nevada, on November 24, 1971, were described in detail to Mr. COSSEY at which time he described the missing back pack parachute as having a sage green nylon container, model NB6 (Navy Back pack 6) with sage green nylon harness, which harness has no "D" rings to mount a chest pack. The parachute is a 28 foot nylon white flat circular with a specially fitted foam padded cushion. The pilot chute is also white.

Mr. COSSEY said that the missing chest pack parachute is a ground training pack dummed up to look like a good one. He said that by "dummied up" he means that tie downs were attached to the container. This chest pack was devised by COSSEY to teach trainees while hung in a harness how to open the chest pack in the event of an emergency. The folds of the parachute are sewn together to preclude the parachute opening in the training room. Mr. COSSEY said that the back packs furnished the hijacker did not have the necessary hooks on the harness to attach a chest pack.

Mr. COSSEY said that if the hijacker opened one of the chest packs on the airplane he probably would remove the parachute and put the money in the chest pack as it would be impossible to hold anything in his hand when the parachute opened. Mr. COSSEY said it would be quite possible to parachute from a 727 jet if the jet was below 10,000 feet and flying at a very slow rate of speed. The person jumping from the plane would have to free fall to earth for several thousand feet to slow himself down and get himself in position for the back pack to open. Even an experienced parachutist would experience considerable shock from the chute opening, however, this would cause little or no personal injury. He said that anyone who had six or seven practice jumps could accomplish this as the first five jumps would be on a static line and the subsequent jumps would be free fall.

He said that jumping at night materially increases the chance of injury and in this case he would consider the parachutists chances of not being injured as "nil." Mr. COSSEY said the back pack used by the hijacker is non-steerable and he would have no chance of slowing down or picking the spot on which to land. Also at night he would be unable to gauge his distance to the ground which would result in a much harder impact. It was his opinion the skyjacker would suffer severe ankle and or leg injuries from this jump.

Mr. COSSEY said that the fact the hijacker wore street shoes would also increase the chance that he would be injured on landing as the most experienced jumpers wear jump boots or some rigid ankle support.

Mr. COSSEY expressed the opinion that the pilot of the jet would notice some oscillation when the hijacker departed the rear of the aircraft.

 following information:

At approximately 4:45 PM, November 24, 1971, [redacted] was advised by the Chief of Detectives that there was an extortion in progress at Sea-Tac Airport. [redacted] then drove his unmarked police vehicle to the Seattle First National Bank where he met various bank officials who had in their possession $200,000. in currency. He drove them to the airport, reaching the Northwest Airlines Operation Center approximately 5 PM. There the money was transferred from the bank officials to a Northwest Airlines official, [redacted]. Also four parachutes were loaded into the police car as were eight crew meals and one set of instructions for exiting the Boeing 727.

[redacted] then drove the vehicle out onto the runway. His car was followed by a stairway truck and a gas truck. He stopped the vehicle approximately 300 yards from the plane landing area at approximately 5:45 PM. Shortly thereafter he observed the plane land and drove the car to the ten to eleven o'clock angle of the nose of the plane. He remained in the parked car and a short time later one stewardess exited the plane via the stair truck and approached his car. She obtained the sack containing the $200,000. and took it on board the plane. She made other trips from the car to the plane carrying the parachutes and the exiting instructions and the flight crew meals.

During this period of time, all of the passengers left the plane and proceeded approximately 200 feet beyond the police vehicle. The passengers boarded a bus which met them at that area and then the bus proceeded toward the terminal.

At approximately 7:25 PM [redacted] drove the police vehicle from the area of the plane and returned to the terminal. This was done upon instructions he received from the captain.

[redacted], a stewardess aboard Northwest Airlines Flight #305, provided the following information:

On November 24, 1971, [redacted] stated that the individual who hijacked Northwest Airlines Flight #305, a Boeing 727, initially boarded the aircraft in Portland, Oregon, and at the time he boarded the aircraft he was carrying a briefcase which measured about 12 inches by 18 inches and was dark brown or black in color. She stated that the hijacker handed another stewardess on board the flight by the name of [redacted] a ransom note demanding $200,000 in cash. She advised that the hijacker's demands were communicated to the Captain of the aircraft via the aircraft's intercom system by another stewardess named [redacted].

[redacted] stated that the note which the hijacker handed to [redacted] stated that the hijacker had a bomb in the briefcase that he was carrying and that he wanted $200,000 and absolutely no trickery or he would explode the bomb that he had in his briefcase. In addition, [redacted] advised that the hijacker requested four parachutes. After these demands were stated, the stewardess named [redacted] went to the cockpit of the aircraft to advise the captain of the situation and remained in the cockpit until just before landing in Seattle. Meanwhile the hijacker remained in his seat and had another stewardess by the name of [redacted] next to him.

[redacted] stated that the hijacker wanted the stewardess named [redacted] to go to get off the plane in Seattle and to get the money that he demanded and then after she got the money, she was to go off the aircraft again to get the four parachutes that he demanded. In addition to the parachutes and the money the hijacker also requested four crew meals. [redacted] advised that [redacted] had told her that the hijacker wanted to go to Mexico and was very concerned throughout the flight about sky marshals being on board the

On November 25, 1971, [redacted] Seattle-First National Bank, the head office being in Seattle, Washington, provided the following information:

[redacted] upon being advised of the identity of the writer, handed the writer a film canister containing a microfilm, upon which the serial numbers of $250,000 worth of notes were recorded. He advised that of the $250,000 worth of notes, the Federal Bureau of Investigation should only be concerned with the $20 bills, that is the serial numbers of the $20 bills, because the hijacker received only $20 bills.

[redacted] stated that there are $230,000 worth of $20 bills recorded on the microfilm. [redacted] advised that in order for the Federal Bureau of Investigation to determine the serial numbers of the $20 bills which the hijacker actually received, we must subtract serial numbers which he provided me from the total list of serial numbers on the microfilm.

[redacted] provided a list of serial numbers of $20 totaling $30,000 worth of notes, which, although they were on the microfilm itself, were not part of the $200,000 worth of $20 bills which the hijacker received. [redacted] stated that the bank packs $20 bills in packages of 100. Each packet therefore contains $2,000 worth of $20 bills.

[redacted] provided the first and last serial number in each of these $20 bill packets and advised that we should subtract both of these numbers, as well as the 98 serial numbers between each of these groups of numbers in order to determine the actual serial numbers of the bills which the hijacker received. - L41197159A thru E12561828B
