Result of examination:

A description of the evidence submitted with Portland communication dated February 13, 1980, was listed in Laboratory report dated February 28, 1980.

Specimen Q39 contains sand that exhibits characteristics which indicate it was subjected to erosional processes, i.e. moving water, and is consistent with having come from sediment which was deposited by the Columbia River.

Q39 is enclosed herewith. The disposition of Q38 will be furnished with the results of the requested fingerprint examination.

Discovered 'Cooper' bills only

$5,800, says F.B.I.

VANCOUVER, Wash. — (AP) — The crumbling remains of $20 bills unearthed by a Vancouver family more than two weeks ago represents about $5,800 of the $200,000 taken in the 1971 D.B. Cooper skyjacking, the Federal Bureau of Investigation says.

Ray Mathis, senior agent, said officials counted the decaying greenbacks during F.B.I. laboratory tests in Washington, D.C.

Otis Cox of the bureau's Washington, D.C., office said little else has been revealed about the money. Lab technicians continue to study the loot, particularly for evidence of where it might have been before it washed up on the banks of the Columbia River, Otis said.

The lumpy wads of money were found buried in shallow sand west of here.

The fate of Cooper, America's first sky-jacker-for-money, has never been learned, although the F.B.I. maintains he is probably long dead.

Agent in D.B. Cooper case retires

Title:

PORLAND — For more than eight years, Ralph Himmelsbach, an agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation, followed a narrow trail of clues and tips in his quest of a legendary hijacker called D.B. Cooper. But the first real break in the case didn't come until Himmelsbach's F.B.I. career was drawing to a close.

After 29 years with the bureau, Himmelsbach retired as of Friday, a few months before he reaches the mandatory-retirement age of 55.

Himmelsbach was the agent regarded as the bureau's expert on the puzzling case that started when the still-unknown sky pirate leaped from a Northwest Airlines 727 with 10,000 $20 bills and two parachutes on Thanksgiving Eve, 1971.

Nothing has been heard of Cooper; and nothing was seen of the money until an 8-year-old boy found about $5,800 of it mixed in the sand along the Columbia River near Vancouver, Wash., February 10.

"It's been an interesting case and I have enjoyed the investigation because of the things that have happened," Himmelsbach said. "It altered my life because of all the attention I have received."

But, he added, "I think I'll walk away from it and it will never bother me."

F.B.I. says remains aren't D.B. Cooper's

VANCOUVER, Wash. — Human skeletal remains found in a rough section of Southwest Washington are those of a teen-age girl and not the bones of D.B. Cooper, the airline hijacker, said Federal Bureau of Investigation officials yesterday.

Special Agent John Pringle said Dr. Arch Hamilton, Clark County coroner, determined the skull found near the western boundary of the Gifford Pinchot National Forest belonged to a young girl.

Pringle said the girl's age or identity has not been determined.

The skull and other bones were found Sunday by Jack Bannister, of Yacolt, Clark County, and his son, Jack, as they were panning for gold about five miles from Yacolt, according to the Clark County sheriff's office.

While the sheriff's office said it didn't think the bones belonged to the famed hijacker, speculation had run high that the skull was Cooper's because it was found in the general area where Cooper bailed out of a plane with $200,000.

Cooper hijacked the plane in Seattle in November, 1971, after picking up $200,000 and bailed out somewhere over Southwestern Washington.

No trace of Cooper had been found until a 8-year-old boy found some of the $20 bills along the Columbia River two weeks ago.

No money, no fish

Treasure hunters fail to find more Cooper loot

VANCOUVER, Wash. (AP) — When the fellas gather at Tena Bar, fish stories abound. Hardly anyone wants to talk about the D.B. Cooper money that got away.

Tena Bar isn't a local watering hole. It's a local fishing hole — and the sand bar on the Columbia River on which the D.B. Cooper loot was found recently.

For awhile, all sorts of people gathered at the bar to search for some of the $200,000 ransom money taken by Cooper in the nation's first hijacking-for-profit nine years ago, after a boy found weathered packets of $20 bills in the sand.

On Wednesday, however, the only evidence of last week's frantic search of the beach by FBI agents were mounds of sand turned up by the searchers.

"We haven't seen anybody," said Bill Holcomb, a Vancouver resident and frequenter of Tena Bar.

Holcomb was fishing there with Virgil Nichols and Ken Troupe, both of Vancouver. The trio made up the entire fishing population of Tena Bar on Wednesday.

"We drag junk out of this river every day. Plastic, old shoes, things like that," said Nichols. "But never any money."

"There may be money here, but there's no fish," Holcomb said.

A long trench on the beach dug for use by river experts studying the layers of sand has been refilled, as has the large hole around the spot where 8-year-old Brian Ingram found the Cooper money. Cooper hijacked a Northwest Airlines plane in 1971 and jumped from the back of the jet with $200,000.

The Fazio Brothers, who own the beach next to their farming operation, seem glad it's over.

"As soon as the FBI left Friday," said Richard Fazio, "Two people came, got stuck in the sand, and wanted me to pull them out. I did, and then I went up to close the gate."

Meanwhile, local FBI agents assigned to the case are awaiting the results of tests of the money by the bureau's crime lab in Washington, D.C., and checking all the leads that invariably crop up when anything to do with the Cooper case is publicized.

"Every time you have anything on the Cooper case that gets any publicity, the fallout is a great number of leads — look-a-like leads."

FBI agents wield rakes, shovels in 'treasure hunt'

Story on Page One also

By LESLIE L. ZAITZ
of The Oregonian staff

VANCOUVER, Wash. — Guernsey cattle and puzzled fishermen watched with curiosity Tuesday as 20 casually attired FBI agents combed the Columbia River shoreline near here, looking for more of a hijacker's treasure.

The agents, working with garden rakes and shovels, carefully sifted through the sand on what is known locally as Tena's Bar, a sloping beach about nine miles northwest of Vancouver. The beach is owned by New Columbia Gardens Co., which operates a truck and dairy farm behind the beach.

What attracted the searchers was the find Sunday afternoon of a dozen bundles of worn $20 bills, part of the ransom paid more than eight years ago to the legendary "Dan Cooper." A man using that name hijacked a Northwest Airlines jetliner in November 1971 and parachuted out of the aircraft with 21 pounds of cash totaling $200,000.

The bundles on the beach were found by 8-year-old Brian Ingram, who was helping his parents, Harold Dwayne and Patricia Ingram, build a fire for a picnic. The family, which moved to Vancouver recently from Oklahoma, had never heard of the man who was widely known at the time of his crime as D.B. Cooper.

Dorwyn Schreuder, the FBI agent supervising the beach search, said the Ingiams put the money aside after discovering it and continued with their picnic. They reported their discovery to the FBI on Monday.

The site, a popular fishing spot for Vancouver residents, was guarded by agents Monday night and the search started about noon Tuesday.

Agents roped off a section of beach measuring roughly 150 yards long and 30 yards wide. All driftwood was removed, and then began the laborious task of raking through sand at least 6 inches deep.

The Ingams' find had been about 6 inches beneath the surface, Schreuder said. FBI agents Tuesday afternoon found fragments of at least two other $20 bills. By late Tuesday, several more fragments had been found as deep as 3 feet below the surface.

"We'll be taking some heavy equipment, probably backhoes, in there Wednesday to dig deeper," said Bill Baker, assistant special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office.

Schreuder and other agents at the site said they still supported the long-held FBI theory that Cooper died in his parachuting attempt.

"He's probably not alive today," Schreuder said. "If he were, I think he'd be with his money."

The FBI initially was cautious about disclosing the precise location of the discovery. Operators of the farm said they knew something was unusual when several cars streamed along a road leading through the farmyard to the beach.

"We didn't know what it was about until we heard it on the radio," said one farm employee.

And three fishermen who routinely spend every day but Sundays fishing on the beach initially were confused and then angry.

"These guys wouldn't tell us what was going on," said Ken Davenport of Vancouver. "They asked us to move, but wouldn't tell us who they were or why."

Another fisherman, Mike Haddican of Vancouver, said they knew something was up "because everybody was getting out of cars with shovels instead of fishing poles."

The Guernsey cows watched the beach show from their pens on a small bluff, scattering occasionally when helicopters chartered by news organizations flew overhead.

Within an hour after the FBI announced where the money had been found, private automobiles streamed down Northwest Lower River Road, a narrow two-lane road leading to the farm. A Clark County sheriff's deputy guarded the entrance, preventing the public from getting to the beach.

FBI agents were to remain on the scene overnight to keep out would-be treasure hunters.

The FBI said how much of the beach would be searched would be determined after the agency consulted with hydrologists and others who could provide expert advice about from where the money may have come.

Only half-joking, Schreuder said the agents "could search all the beach from here to Astoria."

FBI calls off search for more hijack money

The FBI has, at least temporarily, called off its search along the Columbia River for more of the money obtained eight years ago by the airplane hijacker who used the name Dan Cooper.

Jack Pringle, assistant special agent in charge of the FBI's Seattle office, said, the search was called off late Thursday night after several days of sand-sifting produced no new evidence.

The Seattle office has coordinated search efforts in the Cooper caper, the only unresolved hijacking on record since it occurred in 1971.

Pringle said search efforts might be renewed next week, after the results of laboratory tests are received on the several thousand dollars in badly decayed $20 bill fragments found by a picnicking family Sunday about nine miles downstream from Vancouver.

He said there was a chance the tests "could find additional debris that might give us an idea where (the money) may have been" before it washed onto the river bank.

A geologist serving as consultant to the FBI has said he believes the money had spent most of the past eight years underwater and was deposited on the sandy beach only within the past year.

The Northwest Airlines plane was hijacked between Portland and Seattle by a man who said he had a bomb. The hijacker obtained $200,000 in $20 bills when the plane landed in Seattle and then parachuted with the money over Southwest Washington.

The bills found Sunday represented the first trace of the hijacker or money since the Thanksgiving Eve hijack occurred.

Finder of Cooper loot gets frayed $20 bill

VANCOUVER, Wash. — Eight-year-old Brian Ingram, who found bundles of $20 bills last week but had to turn them over to authorities, has been given one by the FBI.

The boy jumped into the national spotlight Feb. 10 when he discovered several thousand dollars of the $200,000 ransom paid to skyjacker Dan Cooper in 1971. The money, frayed around the edges, was identified by FBI agents who have been looking for Cooper since he jumped from a Northwest Orient Airlines plane over Southwest Washington.

The $20 was given to the boy by Mike Heywood, Hough Elementary School PTA president. Accompanying the bill was a certificate praising the boy for his find.

Since finding the money, Brian and his parents, H. Dwayne and Patricia, have been the subject of network television newscasts and newspaper articles. Saturday night, the three were satirized on the "Weekend Update" segment of the weekly television show "Saturday Night Live."

Geologist's finding contradicts theory

By Bud May
The Daily News

A thorough search of a Columbia River beach where part of D.B. Cooper's ransom money was found Sunday has turned up no new clues as to the fate of the legendary skyjacker.

The FBI said today that the search will continue today and Friday, then probably be suspended temporarily.

Brought to the beach to aid in Wednesday's search were a backhoe and a geologist.

The FBI said the backhoe was used to dig a trench near the discovery site, making possible a study of the layers of sand.

An associate professor of geology at Portland State University, Leonard Palmer, was retained to inspect the sand and to assist investigators in determining when the bundled money may have been deposited there.

Palmer, to the surprise of some authorities, concluded that the money was deposited on the beach in the past year or two because it was above clay deposits put on the beach in a 1974 channel dredging operation.

According to the FBI, a coarse layer of sand sloped from a height of about six inches at the river's edge to two feet or more some distance up the river bank.

Earlier, Ralph Himmelsbach, a Portland FBI agent who has had charge of following new leads in the Cooper case for a number of years, said he believed the money must have been deposited within a couple of years after the skyjacking.

He says discovery of the money provided a major break in the case, but puts authorities no closer to locating Cooper, whom Himmelsbach believes is dead.

Agents say the money was tied to Cooper when he bailed out of the plane, but was no longer with him when it was deposited on the beach.

If it had still been attached to his body at the bottom of the river when the channel was dredged in 1974, the body would have clogged up the dredge and have been found, agents believe.

Jack Pringle, assistant agent in charge of the Seattle FBI Office, told The Daily News this morning that small bits and pieces of $20 bills were located Wednesday when agents continued digging in sand surrounding the spot where a Vancouver family discovered money Sunday.

The Harold Dwayne Ingram family was on an outing north and west of Vancouver when their 8-year-old son, Brian, uncovered several thousand dollars in decomposed bills.

Ingram contacted the Portland FBI Office, and a check of serial numbers conclusively established that the money was part of $200,000 in $20 bills Cooper had when he bailed out of a Northwest Orient Airlines jet over the Lewis River area on Nov. 24, 1971.

Pringle said the area was still being searched today, but no new evidence had been located as of this forenoon.

"Some of the area is inaccessible, and there's no way we can search the whole area," Pringle said in Seattle this morning.

This catch wasn't the big one

Fishing for D.B.

Cooper's loot

By PAT MOSER

Columbian Staff Writer

WASHOUGAL — Bob Devaney watched the ducks peck away at something floating in the Washougal River near the Riverside Bowl.

It was March 22, 1977, and Devaney of 4221 F Circle, Washougal, was fishing for steelhead. The muddy runoff waters had cleared, and the river was in shape for catching the ocean-going trout.

"I watched the ducks nibbling away," Devaney said. "I waded out to see. That's when I saw the money. At first, I thought it was play money."

But Devaney picked up a bill and examined it. It was a real $20 bill, and there were six others to be grabbed from atop the water.

Devaney's story became more significant last week when part of the D.B. Cooper hijacking money was found washed up on a Columbia River beach nine miles downstream from Vancouver. One theory contends the money could have washed out of the Washougal River watershed during the nearly 8½ years since Cooper parachuted from an airliner over Southwest Washington.

A check with the Federal Bureau of Investigation list of serial numbers on the $200,000 given Cooper didn't match those found by Devaney. Devaney still has his $140 tucked away in cellophane bags.

The D.B. Cooper money find also brought significance to a green bank bag found by Jack Smith who lives up the Washougal River in Skamania County.

'Cooper expert' to close out career

The finding of some of the "Dan Cooper" hijacking money Sunday came is a dramatic climax to the career of Sean Ralph Himmelsbach, the FBI's Cooper expert.

Himmelsbach, himself a veteran pilot, has lived, breathed and slept the Dan Cooper case ever since a man using that name hijacked a Northwest Airlines jet from Portland on Thanksgiving Eve, 1971.

Himmelsbach, who has logged thousands of hours of flying time in his own 1952 model single-engine Beechcraft Bonanza, was aloft in an Oregon Air National Guard helicopter ready to intercept the hijacked plane within a few minutes after the airliner took off from Seattle, where Cooper obtained $200,000 and four parachutes. But the air turbulence that night was so severe that the helicopter was ordered back to Portland Airbase.

Next morning Himmelsbach started the first of a series of flights which took him the length of the hijack route many times, between investigating other clues, all of which proved to be false.

"I was over the target area near Lake Merwin Sunday again," he said

Tuesday. "I saw they had logged a lot of prime search area, and thought something would turn up now."

But he never guessed the news that would confront him when he reported for work Monday.

"I'll admit to a certain sense of satisfaction," Himmelsbach said Tuesday, flashing a broad smile. "The case isn't solved, but this is certainly a major milestone."

Himmelsbach will retire March 1, after 27 years with the FBI — climaxed by his work on the Cooper case, one that will go down in FBI history.

Bills 1st solid clue in hijack mystery

By LEVERETT RICHARDS
of The Oregonian staff

The weathered bundles of $20 bills found on the Washington bank of the Columbia River nine miles northwest of Vancouver on Sunday were the first solid clues to the mystery of the "Dan Cooper" aircraft hijacking, FBI agents said Tuesday.

One of the more intensive searches in the FBI's history had failed to turn up any clue to the fate of the mysterious hijacker or his loot during the eight years since he bailed out of a Northwest Orient Airlines Boeing 727 flying at 7,000 feet over La Center, Wash., on Nov. 24, 1971, FBI spokesmen said.

Cooper's was the first hijacking of a commercial airliner for money, and started a chain of similar attempts, which was responsible in part for the rigid security system now enforced at all United States airports and most major airports abroad.

Because of an erroneous report of the name used by the hijacker, he became known nationally as D.B. Cooper, although the airline manifest showed he had used the name "Dan."

The man who called himself Cooper paid cash for a ticket and boarded Northwest's Flight 305 at Portland International Airport just before it departed. He sat in a rear seat in the cabin and waited until the plane was airborne. Then he handed stewardess Florence Schaffner a note saying he had a bomb in the satchel he was carrying and demanding $200,000 in unmarked $20 bills.

By the time the plane landed at Seattle-Tacoma International Airport at 5:45 p.m., airline officials were gathering the money and the four parachutes he had demanded. The hijacker released the 36 passengers on board, along with all crew members except one stewardess and two pilots. The plane then took off and headed south at 7,000 feet in stormy weather.

At 8:10 p.m. the pilots felt a fluctuation in cabin pressure which indicated the rear door had been opened. Later tests showed this was when the hijacker had bailed out, taking with him the money and the device that he claimed was a bomb.

Computer calculations and a later reconstruction of the flight persuaded the FBI that Cooper had bailed out near Woodland, Wash., and would have landed somewhere west of Lake Merwin.

William Rataczak, first officer (co-pilot) on the hijacked plane who flew the later reconstructions of the hijack flight, said the pilots received no answer when they called on the interphone to their passenger and were not certain he was gone until they landed in Reno, Nev., at 11 p.m.

The "target area" was searched repeatedly by the FBI, other law enforcement officers and soldiers from Fort Lewis, Wash., but no trace of man or money was found. Northwest Airlines offered a reward, since expired, and hunters and woodsmen continued the search for years without success.

Before Sunday, the only item that had been found from the hijacking was a placard believed to have blown off the bulkhead of the 727 when the door was opened in flight.

It was found 13 miles east of Castle Rock, Wash., in January 1979. The placard, if indeed it came from the hijacked plane, "helped to confirm that the plane was on course all the way, but didn't shed any light on what happened to Cooper," said FBI agent Ralph Himmelsbach, who headed the investigation.

After eight years of investigation, Himmelsbach has said he still believes Cooper could not have survived the parachute jump at 7 degrees below zero, dressed as he was in a light business suit and street shoes.

Part of Cooper cash uncovered

By LEVERETT RICHARDS
of The Oregonian staff

"Several thousand dollars" of the $200,000 obtained eight years ago by the celebrated airline hijacker who used the name Dan Cooper was found Sunday along the Columbia River downstream from Vancouver, Wash., the FBI reported Tuesday.

Three bundles containing 12 packets of weatherbeaten $20 bills were found in river sand by a picnicking Vancouver family, about nine miles northwest of the city.

FBI agents searching the beach Tuesday afternoon found several more fragments of $20 bills, some of them under three feet of sand.

Harold Dwayne Ingram, his wife, Patricia, and their son, Brian, 8, were preparing to build a fire on the beach when Brian brushed the sand aside and turned up some of the bills, Ingram said.

"We dug around and found three bundles of bills tied with rubber bands," Ingram said.

The bills were wet and badly worn, but the serial numbers were legible. The FBI identified the serial numbers and confirmed that they were part of the loot given Cooper when he hijacked a Northwest Orient Airlines Boeing 727 jetliner between Portland and Seattle on Nov. 24, 1971.

William M. Baker, assistant special agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, said the Ingams were relatively new to the Vancouver area, moving there recently from Oklahoma. They had never heard of Cooper, Baker said.

"They took it (the money) home and were talking to some friends about it," Baker said. "The friends pointed out that it might be the money from the Cooper thing. That's when they called the FBI."

Ralph Himmelsbach, the FBI agent in charge of the case since the hijacking, said it was the first solid clue to the Cooper mystery since the hijacker bailed out near La Center, Wash., into a winter storm at 8:10 p.m. that Thanksgiving Eve. The first hijacking for money, the Cooper case became a national sensation.

Baker said it was possible the FBI laboratory in Washington, D.C., could discern fingerprints on the money.

"That would be a hell of a break," he said.

Baker said the search for Cooper's remains or other clues would be resumed in a new area.

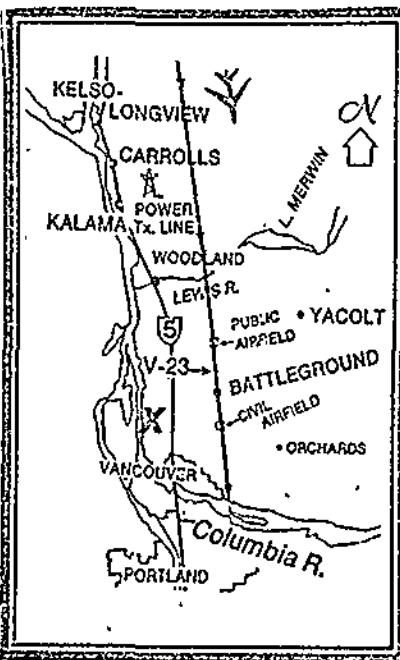

FBI spokesmen concluded that the bills could have been washed down some tributary of the Columbia.

George Holmes, a U.S. Army Corps of Engineers hydrologist, said he would review information about where Coop-

Baker said the money was bundled into packages of several sizes at the time of the hijacking, "to make it appear that it was randomly done, as if it was done in a hurry." Because of that, the actual amount could not be estimated, he said.

FBI agents Tuesday were carefully combing the site of the Sunday discovery for further clues. The beach, open to the public, is owned by the New Columbia Gardens Co., a truck and dairy farm.

Cooper was seen on the plane tying a nylon cord around his waist, presumably to tie the money into a parachute bag. The Ingams said they did not see any sign of a cloth bag, but Himmelsbach said it would be hard to understand how the bundles of bills could have stayed together all these years if they were not in some kind of container.

Found by Family on Outing Part of 'D. B. Cooper' Loot

WASHINGTON—A young Vancouver, Wash., family on an outing along the Columbia River last Sunday suddenly stumbled across 12 stacks of moldering money—part of the $200,000 that the notorious airline hijacker "D. B. Cooper" made off with more than eight years ago, the FBI said.

With the bills now having been traced definitely to the Cooper loot, Seattle FBI offices have begun an extensive search of the area for more of the money—and possibly for some sign of Cooper or, more likely, his remains.

The money—"several thousand dollars," according to one official—was found in Washington about five miles northwest of the Interstate 5 bridge that spans the Columbia and separates Washington from Oregon, FBI agent William M. Baker told a news conference in Portland.

Discovery of the money by Harold Dwayne Ingram, 27, his wife, Patricia, 26, and their sons, 8 and 3, marked the latest twist in the bizarre saga of the now-legendary Cooper, who parachuted from a Northwest Airlines jetliner on Thanksgiving Eve, 1971, never to be seen or heard from again. When found by the Ingolds, the stacks of $20 bills were bound by decomposing rubber bands, the FBI said. But there was "no trace of D. B. Cooper," according to the agency.

Shortly after the hijacking, a cult sprang up around D. B. Cooper, a name that never has been traced to its origins.

A private club was named in his honor, D. B. Cooper T-shirts were manufactured, bumper stickers were run off and anniversary parties were held.

Baker said in Portland that whether Cooper got away with the rest of the money was an open question.

Law enforcement authorities long have believed that Cooper died in his plunge from the Boeing 727 because he was wearing only a business suit and street shoes when he jumped into a howling wind and freezing rain in

"D. B. Cooper" made off with more than an unreliable parachute. It has been estimated that he hit the ground at a speed of 50 to 70 m.p.h.

The saga began when "Cooper" boarded the Jetliner in Portland for an evening flight to Seattle. Once airborne, he demanded that the airline have $200,000 in $20 bills and three parachutes on hand when the plane landed in Seattle. He threatened to blow up the plane if his demands were not met.

The airline complied, providing the parachutes and money. However, the FBI said Tuesday that the serial numbers of the bills had been recorded.

Cooper permitted the airliner's 36 passengers to leave the plane in Seattle. He then ordered the crew to take the plane to Reno and told the pilot to fly at a relatively low altitude and to open the plane's rear stairway.

Crew members last heard his voice on the plane's intercom when they were over the Washington-Oregon border. They said they believe he jumped, using the least reliable parachute. The decomposed money was found 17 to 20 miles from the jump site by the Ingolds' older son, Brian. The bills were partly buried in sand that the Ingolds were scooping out to build a fire.

"Here's some more wood for the fire, Daddy," the father recalled his son as saying.

D.B. and the money

VANCOUVER, Wash. — William M. Baker, assistant agent in charge of the Portland FBI office, said discovery of the money ago as part of the $200,000 paid to airline hijacker "D.B. that Cooper died in the hijacking Cooper," have been found on a attempt.

Columbia River beach near here, Cooper's extortion effort was the first time a jet had been hijacked

Harold D. Ingram, 27, his wife, for ransom. A number of hijack-Patricia, 26, and their two sons, Ings for cash have been carried out were picnicking on what is known since the Cooper escapade, as Tena's Bar last Sunday when Baker said the FBI could not be their older son, discovered the certain how much money was in money.

Eight-year-old Brian Ingram was to "several thousand dollars." helping his father gather firewood. The money has been sent to the and had scooped out sand for a FBI laboratory in Washington, fire. As his father was about to D.C., and Baker hopes the lab will drop an armload of wood, young be able to pick fingerprints off the Ingram said, "Wait a minute, bills, which could lead to the Daddy."

Recalling his find yesterday, "That would be a hell of a Brian said, "I seen that money, I break." he said. thought, wow."

But his parents remained calm. The son recalled, "They thought it was counterfeit."

The tattered and worn bills young Ingram found were the first to be recovered by law enforcement agencies since Nov. 24, 1971, when a passenger hijacked a Northwest Airlines Boeing 727.

The man, identified on the flight list as Dan Cooper, parachuted out of the airliner somewhere over southwestern Washington.

The serial numbers on the bills discovered by young Ingram matched those on the money given Cooper by the FBI in 1971.

Part of D.B. Cooper money found

Sub B-4, TM

Compiled from news services

WASHINGTON — The Federal Bureau of Investigation has found about $4,000 of the money that the legendary hijacker, D.B. Cooper, carried with him when he parachuted from a commercial jet over Southwest Washington in 1971, a bureau spokesman said Tuesday.

The spokesman, who asked not to be named, said a family wandering along the banks of the Columbia River north of Portland, Ore., found a packet of money this week.

Held together by a rubber band, the packet of $20 bills was so badly deteriorated the F.B.I. could not make an exact count of the amount, the spokesman said.

Despite the deterioration, the spokesman said the F.B.I. was able to identify the money as part of the $200,000 ransom given to Cooper in Seattle nine years ago. When the money was given to the hijacker, the F.B.I. kept records of the serial numbers.

The packet was found 20 miles downstream from the point where Cooper is believed to have bailed out of the Northwest Airlines 727, the spokesman said.

He added that with floods along the river it was likely that in nine years the packet had been carried some distance.

The Portland and Seattle offices of the F.B.I. were conducting a search in the area, but the spokesman said it was unlikely that discovery of the money packet would aid in the search for Cooper, the only parachute-ransom hijacker in United States history who has not been apprehended.

Cooper boarded a Northwest flight in Portland on Thanksgiving Eve, 1971, using the name Dan Cooper. Before the plane reached Seattle, Cooper threatened to explode a "bomb" in his brief case if he were not given $200,000 in $20 bills and four parachutes and flown to Reno, Nev.

The plane circled Seattle for 2½ hours while authorities gathered the parachutes and money.

The passengers and two of the three stewardesses were allowed to leave the plane. The money and parachutes were loaded and the plane took off for Reno. The pilot was ordered to fly as slowly as possible.

Somewhere over Southwest Washington, the hijacker, the money and one of the parachutes disappeared out of the plane's rear exit, opened in flight. The approximate place of departure was guessed at from cabin-pressure readings on the flight recorder.

The flight recorder and crew testimony indicated Cooper had jumped near the little town of Ariel, Cowlitz County, about 30 miles north of Portland, a densely wooded area in the foothills of the Cascades Mountains.

Despite intensive searches of the area, the only item connected with the hijacking ever found was a rear door from the 727.

Nothing ever was seen of Cooper or the $200,000.

The F.B.I. has said since shortly after the hijacking it believed Cooper probably was killed when he landed.

In 1977, just to make sure the hijacker didn't escape prosecution via the statute of limitations, he was indicted on federal charges in absentia.

PAUL L. MACK, SPECIAL AGENT IN CHARGE OF THE FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION (FBI) FOR WASHINGTON, HAS ANNOUNCED A DEVELOPMENT IN A CRIME WHICH BEGAN ON THE NIGHT OF NOVEMBER 24, 1971, AT PORTLAND INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT, PORTLAND, OREGON, AND HAS BECOME WIDELY KNOWN SINCE THAT TIME AS THE D. B. COOPER HIJACKING CASE.

ON THE NIGHT BEFORE THANKSGIVING, 1971, A MAN WHO GAVE THE NAME DAN COOPER BOUGHT A ONE-WAY TICKET ON NORTHWEST AIRLINES FLIGHT 305 FROM PORTLAND, OREGON, TO SEATTLE, WASHINGTON. UPON DEPARTING PORTLAND INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT, COOPER NOTIFIED A STEWARDESS THAT HE WAS HIJACKING THE AIRCRAFT AND DISPLAYED TO HER WHAT HE SAID WAS A BOMB IN HIS BRIEFCASE. THE FLIGHT PROCEEDED TO SEATTLE, WHERE AFTER MAINTAINING A HOLDING PATTERN FOR SEVERAL HOURS, IT WAS PERMITTED TO LAND AND REFUEL. AFTER $200,000 AND FOUR PARACHUTES DEMANDED BY THE HIJACKER WERE BROUGHT ON BOARD, HE RELEASED ALL OF THE PASSENGERS AND ALL BUT FOUR MEMBERS OF THE CREW. THE FLIGHT THEN TOOK OFF AND PROCEEDED SOUTH THROUGH WASHINGTON TOWARD RENO, NEVADA. THE HIJACKER INSTRUCTED THAT THE FLAPS AND GEAR REMAIN LOWERED AND THE REAR STAIR DOOR OPEN. AS THE AIRCRAFT PASSED OVER LA CENTER, WASHINGTON, CABIN PRESSURE FLUCTUATION WAS OBSERVED, WHICH WAS LATER DETERMINED TO INDICATE HIS DEPARTURE FROM THE AIRCRAFT

Dear [REDACTED]:

This letter will confirm in writing a telephone conversation between you and Special Agent [REDACTED] on August 6, 1980. Furthermore, this letter is in regards to a letter from the Seattle Division of the Federal Bureau of Investigation to you, dated June 18, 1980, which concerned the "D. B. Cooper" hijacking case.

On July 29, 1980, the Seattle FBI Office received from you a set of inked fingerprints (right and left thumb) of one Jack Scott Farmer, Date of Birth May 22, 1944. These fingerprints were forwarded to the Identification Division of the FBI at Washington, D. C., and were compared with the latent fingerprints located on the skyjacked aircraft. On August 6, 1980, the Identification Division telephonically contacted the Seattle Division to advise that the comparison had been completed and that the prints of Farmer do not match the latent fingerprints from the aircraft.

The original fingerprints which you provided the FBI will be returned to you by separate communication. Your assistance in this investigation is greatly appreciated.

Very truly yours,

Paul L. Mack

Misfortune Dogs the Family That Found Part of Skyjacker's Money

By Michael Sweeney

Harold Dwayne Ingram, 28, father of the 8-year-old boy who found part of skyjacker D.B. Cooper's ransom money last month, has been arrested in Vancouver, Wash., on a fugitive warrant from Oklahoma.

The warrant charges Ingram with unlawfully removing mortgaged property from the state of Oklahoma — a felony charge that carries a maximum penalty of three years in prison.

Clark County sheriff's deputies arrested Ingram at his rented home in Vancouver Monday afternoon. He was released Tuesday night after a local bail bondsman posted Ingram's $500 bail, sheriff's deputies said.

Kathy Kelly, a legal assistant in the Clark County Prosecuting Attorney's office, said Ingram is scheduled to appear in county district court April 17 for an identification hearing to determine if he is, in fact, the same Harold Ingram sought in Oklahoma.

If he is, Kelly said, Oklahoma authorities will have 60

Cooper parachuted into a freezing rainstorm over Southwest Washington with $200,000 after hijacking a Seattle-bound Northwest Airlines plane Nov. 24, 1971.

Ingram's son, Brian, unearthed several thousand dollars of the ransom money Feb. 10, as he dug a fire pit in the sand along the banks of the Columbia River downstream from Vancouver.

The next day, Ingram turned the money over to the FBI, which announced the find with great fanfare at a press conference featuring the Ingram family.

"Several of us read the paper and recognized him," Roberts told The Associated Press. "We had a warrant sworn out to have him brought back."

Ingram's arrest is the latest in a string of reversals that have followed his family's brief glow in the lime-light.

Two weeks after the money was discovered, Ingram's wife, Patricia, reported that her husband was forced to give up 1½ days of pay — about $100 — in order to return the money and attend the FBI's press conference.

"We live from paycheck to paycheck, and we could sure use that $100," she told The Post-Intelligencer at the time.

Mrs. Ingram told The P-I that recovery of the skyjack loot also resulted in family strife that arose when a relative tried to take credit for finding the money.

Late Saturday night, about 23 hours before Ingram was arrested, a fire broke out in an upstairs bedroom of the Ingram home and caused $1,000 damage before Vancouver firefighters could put it out.

Vancouver Fire Marshal Gordon Gage said the blaze was caused by a short in an extension cord.

And as of yesterday, Ingram had missed three days of work this week at the U-Cart Concrete Manufacturing Co. in Vancouver.

"We're trying to reach him, because we really want to help him," U-Cart owner Joe Tanner said yesterday.

Tanner said his firm intends to advance Ingram the money "to get this thing in Oklahoma squared away."

"We think he's getting a bum rap," Tanner said. "I'm from Texas, and I've got a little knowledge about these Southern redneck laws that let a D.A. help businessmen collect their debts," he said.

"I've been told he (Ingram) has been making payments on this car loan, and he's only a couple of payments behind," Tanner said.

HAROLD INGRAM:
"This is no big thing.
At least I hope it's not."

days to file extradition papers to force Ingram's return to Oklahoma for trial.

Kelly said court documents filed by authorities in Pittsburg County, Okla., last April charge that Ingram "owed $15 down on a used car purchased a month earlier in McAlester, Okla."

The warrant for Ingram's arrest was filed last month, after Pittsburg County District Attorney Don Roberts recognized newspaper photos of Ingram that circulated nationwide in the wake of his family's discovery of a portion of D.B. Cooper's loot.

Worst may be over!

By CYNTHIA TANK

Columbian Staff Writer

"I hate to think the thoughts people will be thinking about me all over the United States," said Harold Dwayne Ingram as he sat in his boss's office Thursday afternoon.

The 28-year-old Vancouver resident said he now regrets his 8-year-old son Brian's finding of D.B. Cooper's hijack ransom money last month.

"I regret it for myself, but not for Brian," who, he said, has enjoyed all the attention.

Brian and his family made national headlines after a family outing on a Columbia River beach near Vancouver Feb. 10 turned into a major media and FBI event. Brian was preparing a campfire when he scooped out about $5,000 of the $200,000 Cooper had demanded and received before jumping out of an airliner in 1971.

Since last month Ingram has:

- ① Lost 1½ days pay — about $100 — in order to return the money and attend an FBI press conference.

- ② Watched as a fire caused about $1,000 damage to the upper floor of his home at 1500 Markle St. Saturday.

- ③ Been arrested Monday on an Oklahoma warrant alleging he left that state unlawfully with mortgaged property — a car.

Officials in Oklahoma said they recognized Ingram from newspaper photographs that appeared after the famous find. Ingram had been wanted for about six months before the story first appeared in the paper, they said.

The warrant was issued because Ingram allegedly is behind in payments for his car.

"I have every receipt," Ingram said Thursday. "I don't have a payment due on that car until the 20th of next month."

"I feel confused, really confused," Ingram said Thursday. "And I feel pretty unlucky. I'm not angry; I'm kind of hurt. I really care what people think about me."

Ingram said he bought his car from a new car salesman, paid $200 or $300 down, and arranged for financing. He said he notified the finance company when he and his family moved here from Oklahoma last winter.

His arrest Monday was an unhappy surprise, he said.

"I had no idea I had a warrant on me," he said. "That's obvious, or I wouldn't be flashing my face all over the world."

He might have been late with a payment or two, he said, "but rich people do that, too, don't they?"

But things were looking up for Ingram today. His boss and attorney, Joe Tanner, said this morning he has been told by the Pittsburg County, Okla., district attorney that that office now has verification of Ingram's car payments. Ingram, in fact, is paid ahead to July on the car, Tanner said.

Tanner said a few details need to be worked out, but when they are the district attorney has told him the charges will be dropped. That will not occur until Monday, Tanner said he was told. The district attorney was unavailable for comment this morning.

As for Ingram's other bad fortune, just before midnight Saturday, two bedrooms on the upper floor burned, and his landlord — who bailed him out of jail Tuesday — started remodeling the next day.

Tanner, vice president of U-Cart Concrete Systems Inc. of Vancouver, where Ingram is employed, said the company is behind him. Tanner, a lawyer, said he will represent Ingram without charge.

Until the charges against him are dropped, Ingram faces an April 17 identification hearing in Clark County District Court.

"These people are great here," Ingram said of his fellow employees. "They want to back me 100 percent."

"He's been treated unfairly," Tanner said.

[redacted] who was formerly employed by Northwest Airlines, was located and interviewed at Denver and was shown new artist's conception B. When shown the composite with glasses she observed that it is a fairly good likeness of the UNSUB and a definite improvement over the previous artist's conception. She stated that she felt the UNSUB's face should be slightly narrower. Regarding the hair on the new conception, she stated that her recollection was that the UNSUB's hair was combed more to the side much as was indicated in the old composite. The hair should be slightly thinner than is indicated in the new composite. The forehead should be slightly narrower. The chin should be thinner and slightly pointed.

[redacted] stated that the mouth of the UNSUB as reflected in the new composite does not appear natural. She stated it should be more like the original conception and that the corners of the mouth should not be turned down.

RE: ARTIST'S CONCEPTION

Enclosed is a copy of photo KK5-1 in the Facial Lines Section of the Facial Identification Catalogue, and a copy of the artist's composite of UNSUB.

The Bureau advised by teletype dated 12/17/71 as follows:

"It is expected the Seattle Office will continue to give this matter close supervisory attention and insure investigation is conducted promptly and thoroughly."

In view of this, the enclosed information is being submitted in memorandum form, first for supervisor evaluation and approval prior to being forwarded to the Bureau for approval.

A key witness, [redacted], was very adamant in her insistence that the artist's conception was not a good likeness of the hijacker. In an FD-302 dated 12/2/71, [redacted] stated that the conception was not, in her opinion, a good likeness of the hijacker. She requested permission to examine the Facial Identification Catalogue and immediately picked out photo #KK5-1 in the Facial Lines Section stating, "that is him, except for the years and hair." She explained that the person depicted in that particular photo closely resembled the man; however, the ears of the hijacker did not protrude as far from the head and she felt that the hair line should be somewhat lower than that on the man depicted on photo KK5-1. She was very adamant in her insistence that the artist's conception shown to her was not a good likeness of the hijacker.

b7c

164-81-3744 Sub H

A comparison of the artist's composite of UNSUB and photo KK5-1 revealed the primary difference between the two photos is UNSUB's composite appears to be a man much younger than the man depicted in photo KK5-1. The man in KK5-1 appears to be in his mid-40s while the composite shows the man in his late 20s or early 30s.

She had previously related to Special Agents of the FBI at Seattle all details that she could recall concerning the hijacker, and understood that the purpose of this interview was to assist in the preparation of an artist's conception of the hijacker, by answering certain questions regarding the best recollection she has as of this time of the hijacker.

[redacted] described the hijacker generally as a white male, age 30-45, olive complexion, height 73 inches, weight 165-170 pounds, slim build, and hair dark brown or black.

She was unable to describe his eyes as he wore horn-rimmed dark glasses at all times she observed him while aboard the flight, and she further pointed out that [redacted]

[redacted] permitted to leave the plane at Seattle.

When questioned further to further define various characteristics of the hijacker, she described his head as oval, eyes unknown, eyebrows average, nose small, mouth small, thick lower lip, thin upper lip, chin pointed, ears average, cheek and cheekbone average, hair straight, and slightly balding. She could not make any comment concerning facial lines, and said he did not have a moustache, beard or pockmarks and skin irregularities.

On viewing a facsimile copy of an artist's conception of the hijacker on Northwest Flight 305, on November 24, 1971, she stated that the conception was not, in her opinion, a good likeness of the hijacker. She requested permission to examine the Facial Identification Catalog, and immediately picked out photo number KN5-1, in the Facial Lines Section, stating, "that is him, except for the ears and hair." She explained that the person depicted in that particular number photo closely resembled the man; however, the ears of the hijacker did not protrude as far from the head, and she felt that the hair line should be some lower than that on the man depicted in photo number KN5-1. She was very adamant in her insistence that the artist's conception shown to her was not a good likeness of the hijacker.

 SA [redacted] and furnished the following information.

b7C

At approximately 2:00 p.m., November 24, 1971, a white male came up to him in regular rotation in a long line of customers and said something to the effect, "Can I get on your flight to Seattle?" [redacted] noticed no nervousness or fidgeting. [redacted] asked if he wanted one way coach and he said "Yes." The white male paid with a $20 bill, probably using his right hand in paying for the fare. The source of money from his pockets was not noted. When asked his name the white male said "COOPER, DAN COOPER". When asked if he had baggage, he said "No." It was not noticed whether or not he was carrying anything. After receiving instructions to flight area, the white male departed from the ticket counter area, his direction was unnoticed. [redacted] said he has never seen the male since.

b6
b7C

The white male was described as follows:

Race	White
Sex	Male
Nationality	American
Age	Mid 30's, possibly older
Height	5'10" or 5'11"
Weight	180 pounds
Build	Medium
Characteristics	Soft voice, Not noted wearing glasses
Complexion	Slightly darker, possibly Olive
Hair	Dark; no gray noted
Clothing	Dark clothing, but only recalled what he believed to be a casual jacket, headwear was unnoticed
Overall impression	Laboring type man as opposed to office worker.

[redacted] was unsure if he would recognize the man again as this man was one of many he handled that day.

The following is a summary of investigation conducted by Portland Division in this matter:

AT PORTLAND INTERNATIONAL AIRPORT (PIA):

On the evening of November 24, 1971, beginning while the hijacking was in progress, Portland Agents interviewed airport, airlines and security personnel, taxicab and bus drivers, gift shop, insurance stands, car storage lot, car rental agency, coffee shop, cocktail lounge and dining room personnel in an effort to identify the unknown subject or develop background information. All interviews were negative except those with the Northwest Airlines ticket agent who sold unknown subject the ticket and the Boarding Gate Clerk, interviews of whom are reported separately.

SEARCH OF ROUTE FLOWN BY FLIGHT 305

On November 25, 1971, a low-altitude air search pattern was flown in a fixed-wing light aircraft at slow speed by SA [redacted] accompanied by [redacted] West Linn Police Department, West Linn, Oregon, who is [redacted]. This [redacted]. This search covered an area of Clark County, Washington, from airway Victor 23 on the west to approximately eight miles east of Victor 23, and from Lake Merwin on the north to the city of Vancouver on the south. Nothing pertinent to this investigation was observed.

On November 29, 1971, that portion of the route flown by Flight 305 from Portland, Oregon to Eugene, Oregon was air-searched by two fixed-wing light aircraft flown by SAs [redacted] respectively, with SAs [redacted] [redacted] respectively, as observers.

On the same date, two Army National Guard jet helicopters also flew this search route. Each helicopter bore three crewmen.

N.A. Chief Performance Engineer had been called to field to help calculate range, etc. During Conference time, he was contacted for assistance in ~~more~~ possible flight characteristics with air-stairs extended, whether opening (Stairs extend about 20° in flight, possibly more with man's weight on them) would be large enough for a man to exit, being assured us there would be no controllability problem, etc. they would get experts working on range problem also, that they had dropped 2-300# because of air-stair opening in flight and that man could probably get out.

N.A. Communications people also had arrived at field to assist in required pinpointing, relief communications problems.

Mr. Nyrop, [redacted], four supervisory pilots, b6 performance engineer, many others on the scene (MSPPFO) for assistance.

2145* Flight at 7000', 160KIAS, fuel flow (FF) 4500#/engine, flaps 30° gear DOWN. MSPPFO advised they would have even more severely limited range in the flaps 30° position. Crew given preliminary information on optimum range TAS (170K), weather, airports available between SEA and RNO, minimum obstruction clearance altitudes, etc.

2155 MSPPFO asked for stewardess best recollection of exact content of RJ briefcase. She got on radio and gave following basic information:

- Eight red sticks, about 6" x 1" in left corner of briefcase, "look like big firecrackers." Two rows of sticks, four on top of four,
- Wire attached to dynamite with red insulation.
- Battery "like flashlight battery, but about 6" high and as big around as my arm".
- Red sticks are about the color "of my uniform".

2205* Crew called RJ and asked him if everything was O.K., and he replied that it was. This was apparently the last communication the crew had with the lab.

2210* Crew reported oscillation of cabin rate of climb indicator. This probably due to RJ weight now on stairs, stairs extending further, resultant effect on cabin pressure. May be best estimate of when he exited airplane.

MSPPFO advised crew that range to RNO now looked good (airplane now at 10,000', 170K, gear down, flaps 30°, FF 4000#/hour/engine, TAT +7°C). MSPPFO calculated TAS and range from this date.

WILLIAM A. SCOTT, residence 262 Peninsula Road, Minneapolis, Minnesota, telephone Liberty 5-5524, was interviewed at the Reno Airport, Reno, Nevada, on the late evening of November 24, 1971, and early morning hours of November 25, 1971. He advised that he was the captain on Northwest Airlines Flight 305.

Captain SCOTT advised that he was present during the interview of all of his crew members and that events, as supplied by them, were correct to the best of his recollection and he had no pertinent additional information to provide at this time. He added that he personally had no direct contact or observation of the hijacker and was, therefore, unable to provide a physical description.

b7c

[redacted] advised that according to some notes he had made concerning the incident, it was at 2759 Zulu time or 3:59 p.m. Pacific Standard Time that he received an emergency signal from hostess [redacted] on the intercom with a series of bells signaling that they had trouble on board. They had a pre-arranged flight signal for such emergencies and he made a notation in his book of the time of this notification.

b6
b7c

Almost immediately thereafter, he received a note from [redacted] advising she thought they were being hijacked and added she was not kidding.

b6
b7c

Subsequently, hostess [redacted] brought a note on what appeared to be a standard 6 x 9 tablet written with a felt pen as well as an envelope that had notations also containing the figure $200,000, two back parachutes, two chest packs and under it a time of 5:00 p.m.

b6
b7c

Hostess [redacted] then went back to the compartment and sat with the hijacker at which time he insisted that all of the above items be physically present and waiting for them at the Seattle Airport upon their arrival and prior to their landing.

b6
b7c

[redacted] received the impression that the above hijacking had been carefully thought out in advance in that the hijacker specified that the money was to be furnished in a knapsack and even insisted that a discarded match cover be returned to him. He also insisted on the return of the original note and the envelope and appeared especially careful to see that nothing of his was left behind.

[redacted] noted that he was present during the interviews of hostess [redacted] and third officer [redacted] and concurred with the information as supplied by them.

b6
b7c

He recalled that the hijacker had indicated the bomb had an electrical fuse and instructed the hostess that radio transmissions be limited as much as possible so that they would not set it off.

He advised that the landing at Seattle was made at 5:45 P.M., Pacific Standard Time, and that the hijacker had indicated that once the money and parachutes were brought on board and that re-fueling was simultaneously taking place, the passengers would be permitted to depart.

[redacted] also stated that there was a delay on the ground in securing the chest-type parachutes and when they did not arrive as quickly as had been hoped for, the crew, through hostess [redacted], requested permission to land anyway without them and the hijacker refused permission for same. At some point in negotiations with the hijacker, he indicated an awareness that parachutes would be obtained from McChord Air Force Base and indicated that it was only 20 miles away from the Seattle Airport.

[redacted] added that after take-off at 7:36 P.M., they received a call from the hijacker around 7:42 P.M., at which time he indicated that he was unable to get the stairs lowered in flight. They then slowed down the aircraft air speed and subsequently observed the cockpit signal light that the rear stairs were down. At that time the Captain instructed the hijacker to sound the bell on the intercom in the event he wished to make any further contact with them, which he agreed to do.

Shortly after takeoff from Portland, Oregon, en route to Seattle, Washington, in the afternoon hours of November 24, 1971, a male passenger on the flight, who was seated [redacted] gave a note to Hostess [redacted] showed the note to Hostess [redacted] who was also in the rear passenger compartment. The note indicated that the male individual was hijacking the plane and wanted the hostess to sit beside him. The note further indicated that he had a bomb and wanted $200,000.00. [redacted] stated she went back to the male passenger seated [redacted] with the note, at which time he indicated that he was hijacking the plane and was not kidding. He added that he wanted "no funny stuff". He had a black attache-type case in his lap, which case was partially open and he had his hand inside same. At this time [redacted] sat down alongside the individual in seat [redacted] and after lighting a cigarette for the passenger, she told him that they would cooperate. Her best recollection is that it was while he told her he wanted no kidding and no funny stuff that he first partially opened the attache case and permitted her to see the contents. She recalls the contents as approximately eight cylindrical objects about six to eight inches long with four of the items being placed on top of the others and banded together with some kind of tape. She also recalled some covered and uncovered wiring running from the cylindrical objects to a dry cell type battery which had terminals on one end. She could not recall whether the wires were connected to the terminals. The battery was described as approximately eight inches long and about two and one-half inches in diameter. She stated that she had the impression upon observing the contents of the attache case that it was secure the money in this rather than in the white bank-type bag which he had been furnished. Her recollection was that she did not see him tampering with the two large parachute containers other than to cursorily inspect them when she had brought them aboard.

After the plane was airborne, there was conversation between [redacted] and the hijacker regarding her opening the rear door and extending the stairway. She told him that she was fearful of being sucked out of the airplane and, accordingly wanted to tie an emergency safety rope around her waist and attach it to a seat in order to prevent being sucked out of the door when she opened it. He told her at that time it would not be necessary for her to use the emergency safety rope inasmuch as he would cut one of the parachute shroud lines for her to insure her safety when she opened the door. It was at this time that he was still working with the parachute to in some way secure the money to his body.. Shortly thereafter he asked her to demonstrate to him the procedure for opening the rear door and extending the stairway. She did this and was under the impression that he understood how to do it. She commented that it occurred to her at this time that this was the only function of the aircraft which she had discussed with the hijacker during the time she had been with him which he did not seem to be fully aware of. She stated that as a matter of fact, he had even shown a knowledge of where the oxygen bottles were located at an earlier time, which information she felt is normally known only to air crew personnel. While she could not recall specifically, she stated there were several other comments he made which indicated to her that he had an extensive technical knowledge of this particular type of aircraft and perhaps aircraft and flying in general. She also commented that he appeared to be completely familiar with the parachutes which had been furnished to him.

It was estimated by [redacted] that in less than five minutes after takeoff, the hijacker suddenly told her to go forward of the aft compartment, to close the curtain behind her and not to return to the rear compartment again. She

On November 24, 1971, while employed as a stewardess for Northwest Airlines, she flew on Flight 305 which originated in Washington, D. C., arrived at Minneapolis, Minn., about 10 a.m., and she boarded shortly thereafter. She said the crew for her flight were Pilot WILLIAM SCOTT. [redacted]

[redacted] advised that her flight departed Minneapolis, Minn., at 10:35 Central Standard Time, with a light load, less than half, and flew to Great Falls, Montana, then to Missoula, Montana, then to Spokane, Washington, and Portland, Oregon. She said that the aircraft departed Portland, Oregon at 2:53 Pacific Time, and arrived two hours and fifty-three minutes later at Seattle which is normally a 36 minute flight.

Just before the [redacted] gave the word for take off from Portland, [redacted] took a beverage form to the aft jump seat. There was a man in seat 18 E, middle right aft passenger seat, and as she, [redacted], faced the barrier strip, she observed [redacted] dropping a note, stand up, and unfasten the barrier strip and sit down next to the man in seat 18 E. [redacted] appeared emotional in that she was trying to speak to her, was moving her lips, but other than [redacted] no other words came out.

SUBJECT: NORJAK

Re: [redacted]

On 12/9/71 witness [redacted] advised that based on the three photographs shown him of the suspect [redacted] he could not positively eliminate [redacted] as a suspect if the possibility the skyjacker wore a hair piece is considered. He said that he could not positively identify the photo of [redacted] as the skyjacker, but felt there was similarity.

[redacted], a stewardess aboard Northwest Airlines Flight #305, provided the following information:

On November 24, 1971, [redacted] stated that the individual who hijacked Northwest Airlines Flight #305, a Boeing 727, initially boarded the aircraft in Portland, Oregon, and at the time he boarded the aircraft he was carrying a briefcase which measured about 12 inches by 18 inches and was dark brown or black in color. She stated that the hijacker handed another stewardess on board the flight by the name of [redacted] a ransom note demanding $200,000 in cash. [redacted] believes that the note was handed to [redacted] very shortly after takeoff from Portland. She advised that the hijacker's demands were communicated to the Captain of the aircraft via the aircraft's intercom system by another stewardess named [redacted].

[redacted] stated that the note which the hijacker handed to [redacted] stated that the hijacker had a bomb in the briefcase that he was carrying and that he wanted $200,000 and absolutely no trickery or he would explode the bomb that he had in his briefcase. In addition, [redacted] advised that the hijacker requested four parachutes. After these demands were stated, the stewardess named [redacted] went to the cockpit of the aircraft to advise the captain of the situation and remained in the cockpit until just before landing in Seattle. Meanwhile the hijacker remained in his seat and had another stewardess by the name of [redacted] next to him.

[redacted] stated that the hijacker wanted the stewardess named [redacted] to go to get off the plane in Seattle and to get the money that he demanded and then after she got the money, she was to go off the aircraft again to get the four parachutes that he demanded. In addition to the parachutes and the money the hijacker also requested four crew meals. [redacted] advised that [redacted] had told her that the hijacker wanted to go to Mexico and was very concerned throughout the flight about sky marshals being on board the Witness [redacted] was shown pictures of the above noted suspects. [redacted] could not positively identify any of the photographs as that of the hijacker. He said that all of the people shown in the photographs could be eliminated in his opinion with the exception of [redacted].

He said that [redacted] resembled the hijacker in photos numbered 5 and 6. He said that in photo #5 [redacted] is sitting in a manner much like the way the hijacker was sitting on the plane. He said that although there is a good resemblance in the photograph he could not positively identify [redacted] as the hijacker unless he saw him in person.

SA [redacted] called from Philadelphia today. He is the one doing the interviews with [redacted]. So far, all the pictures shown to her, including [redacted], have been non-idents. They are sending us a teletype but he wanted us to know that and he also wanted us to know that [redacted] wants to be thoroughly re-interviewed since she feels she can now recall things which she did not furnish previously. They are going to do this in the morning.

He said that she told him that the subject told her he wanted to take off with the ladder down, the gear down and "we'll be flying with 15 degrees." She said the pilot told her to tell him that they could not take off with the ladder down and he muttered, "Yes you can, but that's alright, we can lower it later."

[redacted] told us he thought this was significant since this would indicate the subject knew a lot about airplanes, perhaps that he might have worked on the 727 at one time. He also thought it was significant that "we'll be flying with 15 degrees" since this is pilot talk, meaning 15 degrees of flaps. I asked him if [redacted] mentioned whether or not the subject gave instructions as to the course to fly. He said that the subject did not, that he did not give any headings, he did not outline any course, but simply said to take him to Mexico.

b7c

They will be reinterviewing her tomorrow and furnish a teletype.

1Date of transcription 12/1/71

On November 25, 1971, [redacted]
 [redacted], Seattle-First National Bank, the head office being in Seattle, Washington, provided the following information:

[redacted], upon being advised of the identity of the writer, handed the writer a film canister containing a microfilm, upon which the serial numbers of $250,000 worth of notes were recorded. He advised that of the $250,000 worth of notes, the Federal Bureau of Investigation should only be concerned with the $20 bills, that is the serial numbers of the $20 bills, because the hijacker received only $20 bills.

[redacted] stated that there are $230,000 worth of $20 bills recorded on the microfilm. [redacted] advised that in order for the Federal Bureau of Investigation to determine the serial numbers of the $20 bills which the hijacker actually received, we must subtract serial numbers which he provided me from the total list of serial numbers on the microfilm.

[redacted] provided a list of serial numbers of $20 totaling $30,000 worth of notes, which, although they were on the microfilm itself, were not part of the $200,000 worth of $20 bills which the hijacker received. [redacted] stated that the bank packs $20 bills in packages of 100. Each packet therefore contains $2,000 worth of $20 bills.

[redacted] provided the first and last serial number in each of these $20 bill packets and advised that we should subtract both of these numbers, as well as the 98 serials numbers between each of these groups of numbers in order to determine the actual serial numbers of the bills which the hijacker received. These groups of numbers are as follows:

L41197159A thru E12561828B

 [redacted] Seattle, telephone number MA 4-5224, provided the following information:

[redacted] advised that he boarded Northwest (NW) Flight #305 at Portland, Oregon, destination Seattle, Washington, on November 24, 1971. About ten minutes out of Portland, [redacted] observed a male seated on the last row, left side, middle seat, who he described as follows:

Sex:	Male
Race:	Caucasian
Hair:	Dark
Complexion:	Dark
Age:	Approximately 35
Height:	5'10"
Weight:	150 pounds
Build:	Medium
Characteristics:	Average facial features, no moustache or beard
Clothing:	Wearing a dark jacket like a blazer and a sporty vest beneath

[redacted] stated that he became suspicious of this individual shortly after takeoff because of his continual contact with a stewardess named [redacted] (Last Name Unknown).

[redacted] talked on the phone much of the time and frequently conferred with the hijacker. Shortly after takeoff an announcement was made that everyone was to remain in their seats due to a mechanical problem which would require some time to correct.

During the time the plane circled Sea-Tac Airport [redacted], who was seated about [redacted] rows in front of the hijacker, went to the restroom in the rear compartment several times. Upon emerging from the restroom on one occasion, [redacted] found himself blocked in the aisle.

[redacted] was blocked by [redacted] and a male wearing a cowboy hat. The cowboy was "hassling" [redacted] for information.

about the mechanical difficulties and generally being a nuisance. The hijacker seemed to enjoy the situation at first but became irritated and told the cowboy to go to his seat. The cowboy paid no notice of the hijacker and continued hassling [redacted]. Finally, [redacted] talked the cowboy into returning to his seat.

[redacted] observed the hijacker a number of times during the flight but did not see a gun, bomb, suitcase, or baggage in his possession, nor did [redacted] observe the hijacker threaten [redacted] or any passenger at any time. [redacted] only heard the hijacker when he spoke to the cowboy but did not feel that the hijacker's speech had any particular characteristics.

On November 25, 1971, [redacted]

[redacted] Washington, was interviewed at [redacted]

[redacted], Washington.

b6

b7C

He was exhibited the Facial Identification Catalog and he picked therefrom the facial characteristics which most closely resembled those of the man who hijacked Northwest Airlines Flight 305 on November 24, 1971.

- A. Head, oval, KAl-11
- B. Eyes, average, OB1-5
- C. Eyebrows, average, KCl-11
- D. Nose, narrow base, KD4-4
- E. Mouth, average, KE1-16
- F. Chin, pointed, KF3-15
- G. Ears, close set, OG3-7
- H. Cheek and cheekbone, average, OH1-4
- I. Hair, curly or wavy, OJ2-1
- J. Facial lines, forehead OK1-11; between eyes, OK2-11; nose to corner of mouth, KK3-13; side of face, OK4-6; around eyes, KK5-4; chin and neck, OK6-12.

[redacted] stated the subject had no moustache, beard and no pockmarks or skin irregularities. The subject's skin was smooth. [redacted] stated he believes the subject removed his dark glasses once at the time that he, [redacted], and therefore he picked out eye and eyebrow characteristics. Ordinarily, the subject kept his dark glasses on.

b6

b7C

Interviewed on 11/25/71 at [redacted], Washington File # SE 164-81-281 b6

by SA [redacted] rmh Date dictated 11/26/71

SE 164-81

2

[redacted] stated that the photograph above OJ2-1 on page 107 bore a close resemblance to the subject, especially if chin KF3-15, page 83, were substituted. Photograph, OJ2-1, resembled the subject closely from the upper lip upwards.

b6

b7C

The subject's hair was jet black, greasy, had a patent leather sheen, marcelled, combed almost straight back, but with a slight angle toward the right side of the head and had a slight part on the left.

He felt the subject might have been a Mexican-American with possibly some American Indian blood.

[redacted] who has been in [redacted] for a number of years, [redacted] which he stated matched the color of the subject's suit coat.

b6

b7C

[redacted] was also exhibited an artist's composite sketch of the subject. He stated the sketch closely resembled the subject, but suggested the following changes:

b6

b7C

The hair should be as it appears in the sketch, not photograph, at the top of page 104 in the above-mentioned catalog; it should be marcelled, with a slight part on the left, with a patent leather sheen.

The mouth's lower lip is too full. Mouth KE 1-16, page 61, should be substituted.

The chin is too broad and chin KF 3-22, page 83, should be substituted.

The cheeks should be as in cheeks KJ 3-1, page 108.

SA [redacted] penciled in a narrower lower lip, narrowed the chin and shaded the area on either side of the chin in the artist's sketch. [redacted] stated that with these changes the resemblance was closer, but that the entire face should be longer. The sketch, as it originally existed resembled a "clean cut American" too much.

On 11/29/71, [redacted] was contacted by the writer and advised that UNSUB was wearing sunglasses and he never saw his eyes.

With respect to the artist's sketch, [redacted] advised that if the face were widened one sixteenth of an inch, the sketch would be an excellent likeness to UNSUB. He described UNSUB's glasses as slightly wrap-around style, dark brown. [redacted] who is [redacted]

[redacted] (contacted 11/29/71), of [redacted] Seattle, was displayed an artist's conception of the hijacker. After studying the artist's sketch, [redacted] made the following comments.

b6

He stated that the hijacker had an over-all appearance which was in some ways similar to the artist's sketch; however, he recalled that the hijacker had a broader nose, wider forehead and face in general, than that depicted in the sketch. He also noted that the hijacker's hairline was somewhat lower than the sketch and the hijacker's glasses had squarer corners than the round corners or cornered glasses depicted in the sketch.)

On 11/29/71, [redacted] stated hairline was good. Hair itself should be marcelled and hair style of President NIXON is quite similar to what UNSUB had. Hair should be slicked down as characters wore in old GEORGE RAFT movies. Nose in artist's conception too pinched, should be broadened in area of nostrils. Cheeks too flat, should be more rounded to give Mexican-American appearance. Chin area good.

Date November 29, 1971

On November 24, 1971 [redacted]
 [redacted], Washington, telephone [redacted] was interviewed in [redacted]
 [redacted], Seattle, Washington. He stated he is [redacted]
 [redacted], Seattle, Washington, telephone [redacted].

[redacted] boarded Northwest Airlines Flight 305 at Portland, Oregon on November 24, 1971 at approximately 2:45 p.m. [redacted] passenger to board the aircraft. He believed he had seat [redacted] which was an aisle seat on the port (left) side of the aircraft in the rear.

He stated that he did not realize that this aircraft was being hijacked until it landed at the Seattle-Tacoma Airport, Seattle, at approximately 5:50 p.m., to the best of his recollection. He recalled that when the aircraft first approached Seattle the pilot announced that there would be a delay in landing due to some mechanical difficulty and that he would have to circle the field to burn up the fuel. This would take about half an hour. However, the aircraft circled for a much longer period and while [redacted] felt that something was amiss, he did not consider that the aircraft was being hijacked.

During the flight he had noticed a man seated in a window seat on the starboard (right) side of the aircraft to [redacted] rear. A brown haired stewardess, name unknown, was seated by this man all the time. The stewardess had the aisle seat. [redacted] thought this was strange. The stewardess said not to look at the man, but [redacted] said he managed to turn back and look at the man twice, who stayed slouched down in his seat. He never saw the man stand and never heard him speak. He did not see that the man had any packages with him. The name of this stewardess is unknown to him.

At about ten minutes before the announcement was made that there would be a delay in landing at the Seattle-Tacoma Airport, [redacted] rose to go to the bathroom and started toward the one on the starboard side, but the stewardess, above, told him to use the one on the port side which he did. [redacted]

After the aircraft landed, the passengers in the rear of the aircraft were told to move forward, but since [redacted] the above man, he stayed in his seat. [redacted] person, to this man, except for the stewardess. [redacted] unknown.

After the landing he noticed a blonde stewardess, one of the in flight stewardesses, carrying a money bag about two feet tall. He did not see her give it to the man. [redacted] said there were three stewardesses on the flight, the one blonde and two brunettes.

He said that he heard some parachutes had been brought on board but he did not see them.

When the passengers got off the aircraft by the forward door, the above man stayed on board. [redacted] said he had not seen this man board the aircraft but remarked that [redacted] passenger on board at Portland.

[redacted] described the above man as follows:

Name	Unknown
Race	Caucasian, believed to be of Mexican-American descent with possibly some American Indian blood
Sex	Male
Age	About 35 years
Complexion	Swarthy
Hair	Jet black, wavy, marcelled, greasy patent leather sheen, combed back at slight angle to the right, slight part on left, combed close to the head, slightly receding in front

[redacted], Washington, telephone [redacted], provided the following information:

She was a passenger on Northwest Airlines, Flight 305, boarding the flight in Portland, Oregon and sitting on the plane [redacted] in front of the hijacker on the right side of the plane, looking forward.

[redacted] advised that a few minutes out of Portland, she observed one of the stewardesses conversing with the hijacker. She stated that this stewardess sat beside this man throughout most of the flight and that she did talk on the intercom apparently to the captain at various times through the flight. She advised that she recalled this man was sitting in the middle seat of the right rear row with the stewardess sitting next to him on the isle side.

She advised that upon landing in Seattle, the hijacker got up from his seat and went into the restroom at the rear of the plane. He remained there for about one minute and then returned to the same seat which he had occupied throughout the flight.

[redacted] advised that the hijacker was wearing large sunglasses and an overcoat. She advised that he had dark hair and a narrow face. She advised that when he exited the restroom and returned to his seat, he was carrying a dark colored attache case on its side in both arms. She stated that on top of this case was a package which appeared to be a yellow paper bag. She described this bag as being approximately four inches high and being about two inches shorter than the width of the attache case.

[redacted], Area Officer B, Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Seattle Air Route Traffic Control Center, Auburn, Washington, provided a transcription prepared by his office of tape recordings of transmissions between the Auburn center and Northwest Airlines Flight #305, which was under hijack on November 24, 1971.

[redacted] advised that the original tapes are maintained in his custody.

b6 Per FAA
b7C

[redacted] advised that the Seattle Center worked Flight #305 on the way in to Seattle from Portland, but had no indication that a hijack had occurred and the aircraft did not squawk any signal as to a hijack situation. They were not aware of the hijack until they handed off the plane to the Seattle-Tacoma Tower.

[redacted] advised that after the plane took off from Sea-Tac on its way south toward Sacramento, California, the Auburn Center worked the flight from shortly after take-off until they handed the flight off to the Oakland Center, which occurred at the Oregon-California border.

In view of the fact that the times listed in the log provided by [redacted] are in Greenwich Mean Time (GMT), an insertion has been made at least once in each page to convert the GMT to Pacific Standard Time.

SUBJECT: NORJAC

Re telephone call of SA CHARLES FARRELL, #2.

On 7/27/72 [redacted],
Spokane, Wa advised she was flying from Seattle to Pullman, via Lewiston, on Air West on 7/27/72. On the flight she observed a young man sitting a few seats in front of her, and noted that he resembled the composite she had seen in a newspaper of D.B. COOPER. [redacted] advised that when the plane landed in Lewiston, she contacted [redacted] [redacted], who she is acquainted with and asked him if he had a composite of COOPER so she could look at it to see how much the individual on the plane did in fact resemble the composite.
[redacted] advised he did not have a picture. [redacted] advised she was just curious, and was not saying that the individual

CHRISTIAN stated this is a science for the use in locating missing objects. Because of recent hijackings CHRISTIAN concentrated his efforts in locating money taken by hijackers. He produced a map of Washington and Oregon and advised from his method, although never having been there himself, states that the money taken in captioned hijacking is buried on a plot of land located on a secondary road leading northwest from Columbia City, Oregon. According to his plot the money would be located traveling up this road eight miles and then approximately one mile to the west of this, and looking at the map this plot is one mile west of the secondary road leading southwest out of Goble, Oregon, which intersects with the road leading northwest out of Columbia City.

Information being supplied Seattle and Portland as CHRISTIAN stated he will be out in that area in approximately one month and may attempt to locate money there.

Speelyai Bay road on the road to Cougar, Washington (Lewis River Road) there is a 2 x 4 stake in the ground on the left side of the road with the numeral 34 printed thereon. Opposite this stake on the right side of the road, a short distance from the Lewis River Road, is the ravine where the buzzards were circling. A check by [redacted] with the Multnomah County coroner revealed that if the body of the hijacker had in fact been in that area from November, 1972 due to winter conditions and other factors the remains would still attract birds such as buzzards.

LEAD:

At Longview, Washington

At area described above conduct appropriate investigation to determine location and if possible reasons for buzzards circling the area.

This lead will be covered 5/26/72 by SA [redacted] advised that while playing in a band, [redacted], about 6 weeks ago, he had occasion to meet a man calling himself [redacted] Ala.

While playing in the band [redacted] that he lived in [redacted], Ala., was a former Air Force pilot and had been all over the world. [redacted] described [redacted] as being a white male, 5'8" or 5'9", weighing 150 to 165

He further advised that [redacted] was very friendly, spends money freely and appears to be very nervous.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] carries a [redacted]
[redacted] in his right front pocket.
[redacted] is alleged to frequent [redacted] frequently during the week and on weekends. He attempts to disguise himself from time-to-time, using make-up, putty and wearing different glasses and combing his hair differently.

[redacted] had occasion to purchase a copy of the February issue of the "National Inquirer" approximately 3 weeks ago and read an article concerning the captioned hijacking and noticed that the composite picture of D. V.

Referenced Los Angeles letter indicates that a previous letter was written by this unknown individual on 2/24/72 with identification of a U.S. $1 bill, Serial Number [redacted]. For the information of Seattle and Los Angeles, this letter was received by San Francisco and the unknown letter writer described the look alike of D. B. From this description, [redacted] was located and interviewed on 3/2/72 at [redacted], San Francisco, and was eliminated as a suspect since he is 5'6", 155 lbs., and was almost completely bald with a few wisps of blond hair.

Although he did not recall his whereabouts on 11/24/71, his description does not in anyway match that of the hijacker of captioned plane. Unless advised to the contrary by Seattle, no further investigation concerning Suspect [redacted] is being conducted at San Francisco.

Gentlemen:

On Monday, March 13, 1972, at about 4:25 p.m. I called your office to advise that two or three weeks ago I ran across the name "D. B. Cooper" in a Grays Harbor County Superior Court case.

I am enclosing a copy of the return of service which is on file in that case. The original signature is still in the clerk's file and is signed in ink.

I felt probably this wouldn't be of any benefit to you or that someone else would have reported the circumstances, but finally concluded that I should at least make it known to you.

Woman Who Predicted 4 Airplane Crashes Concealed Psychic Power for Years Because She Feared Ridicule

By IAIN CALDER and JACK KELLEY

A California woman who predicted four plane crashes and the assassination of Bobby Kennedy, says she hid her uncanny ability for years because she feared people would laugh at her.

Mrs. Arlene Adams, 52, a civilian administrator at Edwards Air Force Base, told The ENQUIRER: "I first realized I had psychic powers when I was a teen-ager, but people used to laugh at me. So I kept quiet about it until a few years ago, when people began to believe it was possible."

One of the first to acknowledge Arlene's astounding talent was her boss, Col. James E. Foley, a 28-year Air Force veteran, now retired. Foley told The ENQUIRER that on Jan. 2, 1966, Arlene began a run of tragic but amazingly accurate and detailed predictions to him and fellow workers who helped oversee aircraft tests at the base.

"The day after New Year's, 1966, I stopped by Arlene's desk and she told me she had a feeling that Gen. Irving Branch would be leaving Edwards and not coming back," he said.

"Gen. Branch left the next morning on a flight up north, and a few hours later we got word that his T-38 aircraft was missing. Search planes were sent out and, since he was presumed to be flying over water, that's where they started looking.

"That's when Arlene told me differently. She said she 'saw him' still strapped in his seat, sitting upright in the plane wreckage which would be found at the edge of a grove of trees, the tops of which had been sheared off.

"We didn't see how she could be right. We thought he was coming in over Puget Sound. But we found him exactly as she had said — strapped upright in his seat at the edge of a grove of trees whose tops had been sheared off by the plane.

"In May of that same year, she told me she had a premonition about the wreckage of a big white plane, and that Col. Joseph Cotten was somehow involved. On June 8, Col. Cotten was flying a chase plane alongside the B-70 — which is a big, white plane — when the B-70 went down."

Equally chilling, said Foley, was

COL. JAMES E. FOLEY

Mrs. Adams' prediction of the crash of an X-15 and the death of one of its test pilots.

"We had three different test pilots for the X-15, a civilian and two Air Force majors. In mid-October, 1967, Arlene said to me, 'Col. Foley, I see that black bird (the X-15) crashing.' And she said she saw a tall, slim major on board.

"On November 15, the X-15 went down with Maj. Mike Adams, a tall, slim man, at the controls."

Foley concluded with this gripping recollection:

"The only Negro astronaut, Maj. Robert Lawrence, was in our training school when Arlene told me she saw him 'going in' (Air Force terminology for a crash).

"It happened 15 days later. He was in a two-seater F-104 that crashed on PSYCHIC Arlene Adams with models of the two Air Force planes, the X-15 and the B-70 (right), which crashed as she predicted.

Dec. 8, 1967. The other man survived. Maj. Lawrence didn't."

Mrs. Rosalie Beyer, a friend of Mrs. Adams, told of another prediction, just as frightening.

"The thing that is remembered best around here," she said at her home, "is the 1968 New Year's party when we had a few friends over and the conversation somehow got around to ESP."

"That's when Arlene said that an assassination would take place on the sixth of June that would shake the country. But she couldn't quite see who it was. Two months later she told me she knew — she said it would be Sen. Robert Kennedy."

Sen. Kennedy was shot June 5. The following day — June 6 — he died.

Mrs. Adams told The ENQUIRER at her home in Lancaster, Calif.: "When I have a premonition, I don't see it just once, but many times, each time clearer than before."

New Predictions by Arlene Adams

Ted Kennedy will be elected our next President, says Mrs. Arlene Adams, who correctly forecast Bobby Kennedy's assassination.

"I see Ted Kennedy becoming our next President," she explained to The ENQUIRER. "Our younger people are all for him. Senator Kennedy will be drafted to run."

Among her other predictions: "I see Aristotle Onassis being sick with cancer of the prostate. I also see a separation between Jackie and him. But there will be no other man in the picture — not immediately.

"Within the next few months there will be another great earthquake in California.

"And a prominent person will be kidnapped and held as hostage for the release of Angela Davis. I definitely see more violence around her."

Re Portland airtel to Seattle dated 1/5/72.

On January 14, 1972, [redacted]

[redacted], Washington, who is employed furnished the following information:

[redacted] advised that he [redacted] [redacted] and his home address is [redacted], Washington. He is employed as [redacted] stated that he formerly was a professional sky jumper and as a result has jumped in competition throughout the Pacific Northwest and to a degree throughout the United States.
[redacted] stated that he was driving through Vancouver, Wash-ton, [redacted] when he heard of the sky jacking and has subsequently talked to EARL GOSSET, the individual from Issaquah, Washington, who furnished the parachutes given to the sky jacker. [redacted] stated that he has tried to think of any individual that he is acquainted with that sky dives that would fit the description of the sky jacker, but has not been able to think of anyone. [redacted] stated that sky jumping has become a popular sport and is taught in many areas and, therefore, a large number of individuals know how to sky dive.

[redacted] was furnished a composite photograph and description of the sky jacker to observe to determine if the description fit anyone he is acquainted with and advised that the description and composites photograph are not familiar to him.

[redacted] stated that if in the event he does ascertain any information that might be of benefit in attempting to identify the sky jacker, he will immediately notify the FBI.

Details of the hijacking as well as artists' conception of Unsub circulated in the Yuma area with negative results.

Details of hijacking as well as artists' conception of Unsub circulated in Parker, Arizona, area and Yuma County Sheriff's Office, Parker, Arizona, advised of the following:

On 11/12/71, a two engine airplane with one man spent three days in Parker, Arizona. The Unsub flew at night only. Yuma County Sheriff's Office deputies advised that he had [redacted] in the plane. Deputies advised that he had been met by a Plymouth stationwagon with a woman and two men with Washington State license plates. Deputies advised that the plane had come in from [redacted], Washington, from [redacted]. The credit card used in the Parker area by the Unsub was # [redacted] and the identification number on the plane was [redacted]. The pilot of the plane was described as follows:

Hair	light in color
Weight	170
Height	6'1"
Name	[redacted] (LNU)

b6
b7C

Sheriff's deputies were again shown the artists' conception of the Unsub with negative results. The artists' conception was taken to the Parker Airport and shown to personnel at that establishment with negative results. They all replied that the artists' conception was not the person in the plane. Sub. J

On December 23, 1971 Investigator [redacted], Anchorage Police Department, Anchorage, Alaska, telephonically advised SA ROBERT H. TOBER [redacted] is presently in [redacted], Anchorage, Alaska, [redacted]. He advised that [redacted] informed him that one [redacted] had made a telephone call to his father, name unknown, on December 3, 1971. [redacted] father was someplace in Texas, possibly Houston. [redacted] reported that [redacted] repeated something said over the phone about his uncle parachuting out of an aircraft. [redacted] reported that when the telephone call was over [redacted] asked [redacted] what was said. [redacted] alleges that [redacted] told him that his father, [redacted] someplace in Texas, had informed him that his, [redacted] uncle was the individual who committed the hijacking of the Northwest aircraft in November, 1971. [redacted] according to [redacted] allegedly told [redacted], father knows the identity of the person but has done nothing about it. [redacted] father allegedly said that his uncle, the one involved, is a dope addict.

After reading about the skyjacking and seeing a sketch of the suspect I think I have a good lead for the authorities. My suspicions are based on the following:

He resembles the sketch.

He knows a lot about planes.

He has done a lot of sky diving.

He would have the nerve to do it.

He has served time at Monroe.

He has lots of connections everywhere.

I don't even know his last name, but he is [redacted] and when I knew him he worked at the [redacted] and b6

On 11:25 AM on December 13, 1971, [redacted], Seattle, Washington, telephone No. [redacted], personally appeared at the Seattle Office and demanded to see SAC MILNES.

He was interviewed by SA CASTELLOW in the Interview Room.

[redacted] advised that he had telephonically talked to Mr. MILNES and had indicated to him that he would advise him the identity of the hijacker for $10,000 in advance. [redacted] was convinced to discuss the matter with SA CASTELLOW.

He stated that before furnishing any information, he desired to be known he needs $10,000 to attend law school.

He explained that he is a [redacted] and that on Friday night, December 10, 1971, at approximately midnight he picked up a passenger in downtown Seattle. That individual was drunk. During conversation with the individual, [redacted] learned that the individual was a sky-diver and had made approximately 75 jumps. Further, he is a motorcycle enthusiast and is particularly fond of the trail bikes that he rides through the woods.

[redacted] then concluded that an individual who is both a sky-diver and a motorcycle enthusiast could well be identical with the hijacker. He concluded this because he could have left his trail bike in the area where he intended to parachute from the plane and thereby make his getaway on the trail bike.

On December 15, 1971, ALMON DE GRAW, P. O. Box 205, Bucoda, Washington, appeared at the Olympia RA to state that he had a device by which he could locate the money involved in this case. Mr. DE GRAW is obviously a mental case and in spite of offering to demonstrate his devining device which consisted of an Alka Seltzer bottle attached to a chain, he was ushered out of the RA.
